Gas Station Robbery

Swift police work leads to arrest

By FRANK J. AMATO

WILMINGTON - Swift work by Wilmington Police detectives resulted in the arrest Tuesday of Kevin Moura, 17, on charges of unarmed robbery, larceny over $250, and breaking and entering. No address for Moura was given, and police believe he is homeless.

About 8:00 pm Sunday, 3 people entered the Exxon gas station on Main Street. Two of the three, pushed the attendant into the back of the station, while the third suspect, (Moura) allegedly took about $500 from the register.

According to police, Moura was positively identified by the attendant. Police believe they know the identity of the other two suspects and will be seeking arrest warrants.

Police believe the driver of the vehicle may not have been aware of the activities of the trio inside of the station.

When police interviewed Moura, he allegedly admitted to a house break at 8 Bates Avenue in Wilmington.

Wilmington Police Inspector Jim White and Officer Dave Axlerod investigated the unarmed robbery, and Inspectors Joe Harris and Dave Sugrue investigated the Bates Avenue incident.

Residents opposed

Video store unlikely

By ERIN DOWNING

Wilmington - An ongoing debate to place a West Coast Video store on Main Street may be settled at the annual town meeting next month.

At the joint Planning Board and Finance Committee meeting March 17, petitioner Quincy Vale submitted a warrant that would ultimately effect the proposed site of the video store. Vale, a Washington Avenue resident, requested the town vote to amend the Zoning By-Laws and Wilmington's zoning map by voting to rezone the site from Neighborhood Business to Residential.

But, property owner Domenic Tutela stated that rezoning the land disregards the rights of him and his wife because they have been paying taxes on the property and want a chance to develop the site.

Tutela has been before the Planning Board numerous times seeking approval of the proposed video store. He has received a great deal of opposition from Washington Avenue and Clark Street residents who fear the store will negatively effect traffic at the site.

After a traffic study conducted at the proposed location indicated a possible problem with the driveway on Main Street, the board approved the plan at the last meeting with the condition that the driveway be moved 60 feet north.

The condition prompted Tutela to change the type of proposed busi-

Chronic substitute shortage hits schools in the classroom

by ERIN DOWNING

WILMINGTON - Teachers taking time off for professional development was criticized for creating teacher absences at the School Committee meeting March 11.

"I think it's awful when kids are not educated when they're here to be educated," said School Committee member Thomas Siracusa. "It's not fair to the families who send their children to school to be educated."

Siracusa's remarks were in response to Curriculum Coordinator Lore Nielsen's update on the school system's professional development events.

The update details professional development dates, number of participants and purpose for each meeting. "This summary is intended to provide you with data to address the chronic substitute shortage problem that Wilmington Public Schools is facing," reads the summary.

Nielsen said she was also concerned about the shortage of substitutes and uncovered classes while trying to implement professional development, but there needs to be a balance.

Responding, Siracusa said he is particularly concerned with the lack of substitutes when block scheduling at the high school conflicts with professional development training. "We're talking about a large amount of time where children are sitting around and not being taught," said Siracusa. "I think teaching kids is the most important issue. How do you balance this?"

Nielsen noted that the state requires the school department to provide professional development to teachers for recertification. The state also requires the school system to spend $75 per student each year on professional development.

The Understanding Teaching I (UT-1) course has the biggest impact on the schools in terms of substitutes, according to Nielsen. "The Understanding Teaching I course can't be rescheduled and is a big problem," she said.

UT-1 is the foundation training for implementing a standards-driven curriculum system and the basis for the District's performance appraisal system.

But, Nielsen is optimistic the situation in the schools will improve. "An analysis of the data shows that by the end of the current course, 80 percent of our teachers will have completed UT-1. Another 21 teachers are currently scheduled for summer 1998, bringing the total to 88 percent by next fall," reads the summary.

Nielsen said she has already attempted to ameliorate the substitute problem by canceling Mentor Teacher training and limiting the Task Force work to implementing the curriculum frameworks and Massachusetts Comprehensive Assessment Systems (MCAS), the state wide testing that begins this spring.

"This way we're not impacting more than four teachers in any one

Sub-committee proposes solution

By ERIN DOWNING

WILMINGTON - In an attempt to increase the number of substitute teachers, a subcommittee on March 11 presented the Wilmington School Committee with a proposed solution.

The subcommittee, which includes Shawsheen School Principal Richard Gorham, North Intermediate Principal Douglas Anderson, high school Assistant Principal Peter Lucia and Director of Administration and Finance Bradford Jackson, suggested the school system create an incentive program to encourage staff members to refer qualified substitutes.

Jackson explained that a staff member would be given a $50 bonus for referring a substitute who is hired and works at least five days for the remainder of the school year.

But, some committee members questioned the idea.

School Committee Chairperson Barbara Breakey stated that she does not agree with the $50 bonus and would rather increase the salary of substitutes. "I couldn't vote for that," Breakey added.

Committee member Robert Young said the issue is not what substitutes are paid, but rather the lack of available substitutes.

Cautious about spending money they might not have, committee member Stephen Peterson said the idea may be premature at this stage.

Breakey stated she wanted information on what the surrounding towns are paying substitutes to find out if Wilmington is losing substitutes because the towns are paying more money.

Jackson said it is important to hire qualified substitutes who can execute a teacher's lesson plan. To ensure this, the subcommittee suggested that principals screen applicants for 60 college credit hours with a minimum 2.0 GPA, photo ID presented with application, three references, criminal check, demonstrated ability to instruct children at the grade level indicated, and attendance at a two-hour training session prior to assignment.

The School Committee did not taken action on the recommendations.

Animal control officer

Davis loves every minute... well almost

By LISA CARRIERE

WILMINGTON - Ellen Davis lives with four cats, two dogs and a very smart mouthed bird. That's inside the house. Outside there are two horses and a barn cat. Davis is Wilmington's animal control officer and she loves every minute of it. Well, almost every minute.

Davis was appointed animal control officer in April 1986 by the town manager. She applied because she "absolutely loves animals." She believes it all started with her mother who grew up on a farm with pigs, horses and cows. And Davis remembers the stories her mother told her about the farm and all of those animals. As Davis grew up, she inherited her own collection of animals, hamsters, birds, dogs, cats, raccoons and the infamous squirrel. That squirrel, which Davis had coddled from a newborn, finally frustrated Davis' mother enough that one day, when Davis was not at home, she put it outside in a big tree in the yard. Davis did not like that. And neither did the squirrel. Each time the door would open, the squirrel would run back in.

When Davis took the job in 1986, it was posted as a part time, twenty hours a week. Until recently she would spend nearly ninety hours a week before she felt done! Initially Davis would respond to any and all calls: the squirrel or bat in the chimney or the skunk under the front porch or the neighbor's dog on the loose. Ten years ago she would go out and capture these creatures for the residents of Wilmington. She has since learned how ness. "If the land stays zoned as it is, I'll put a professional type of use there, such as a doctors office," said Tutela last night.

In opposition to Vale's request,

Planning Board member Austin Rounds stated that Tutela should have a chance to work on the plan a little longer. "Something beneficial might be put on that property," said Rounds.

Rounds suggested placing a business on the site, such as a doctors office, that would not create traffic problems and be aesthetically similar to the surrounding area, which is residential.

Supporting Vale's warrant, board member Carol Hamilton stated she did not disagree with Rounds, but the area is clearly residential and the lot is located in the middle.

The board voted 2-1 for the approval of recommendation for Vale's request. A decision on the warrant will be made at the town meeting next month.

The Planning Board also discussed a petition from Shea Concrete Productions Inc. to rezone a parcel of land on the northwesterly side of Salem Street.

Shea Concrete Productions, located off Salem Street, requested the town vote to amend the Zoning By-Laws and Wilmington's associated zoning map by rezoning the parcel of land from Residential 20 to General Industrial. Rezoning the area would allow the company to build a 60-foot-by-60-foot addition.

Rounds voiced his support for the petition adding, "I say let him expand the use as long as it's with in the border and safe."

But, Hamilton disagreed with Rounds fearing that rezoning the parcel of land would allow for another business to replace Shea Concrete Productions with no control over what will go there.

Hamilton stated the company should have moved years ago when the building out grew the property. "It (rezoning) is absolutely the wrong thing to happen to this site," she said.

Echoing Hamilton's belief, a resident stated that maybe the company should find another location in town that is zoned general industrial.

The board had a split vote on the warrant and it will be decided upon at the town meeting.

New reverend at St. Elizabeth's

By LISA CARRIERE

WILMINGTON - The parishioners at St. Elizabeth's Episcopal Church in Wilmington welcomed the Reverend Joseph Pinho to their congregation on Sunday, March 15. Reverend Pinho was received with the open arms of parishioners and a large luncheon in his honor.

He previously served as Assistant Priest at St. John's Episcopal Church in Jamaica Plain for one and a half years. His prior congregation consisted of approximately 350 people. St. Elizabeth's offers a much smaller family of parishioners, about 40 children and 85 adults. Reverend Pinho looks forward to the smaller group, citing the growing trend towards smaller congregations.

Reverend Pinho, a Monk from 1971 through 1987, attended Weston Jesuit School of Theology in Cambridge in 1975. He was ordained a Catholic priest in 1978. In 1981 he graduated from Boston College. He joined the Episcopal Church of St. Luke and Margaret in Allston in 1988 and was received as an Episcopal Priest in May of 1997.

With approximately sixty people in attendance, the luncheon was warm and clearly welcoming. Connie Perlin, a parishioner, made a very special presentation to a fellow church member, Sherri Pesce. Pesce has been a member of the church for seventeen years and started there as a "person in the last row of the church. Always the last row," according to Perlin. Sunday, Pesce graduated, while those in attendance sang pomp and circumstance, with her regulation graduation cap.

Pesce is now a church leader, a far cry from where she began. She is, "a passionate, compassionate, prayerful person. One of the best," said Perlin. "She used to look up to me, now I look up to her." Pesce's response was humble, telling all that they were "walking with me every step of the way. God is definitely amazing to have done with me what he has done."

The day and all its celebration was summed up in Pinho's face as he observed Pesce's moment. He was proud, filled with warmth, and a feeling of the strength of his new community. He is home.

day for professional development," said Nielsen.

Committee member Robert Young questioned whether teachers could take professional development courses on line.

Nielsen said, "I highly value the benefit of student/teacher interaction when learning. Plus we don't have Internet access in the schools, so teachers would have to do it at home."

Young explained that the lack of substitute teachers is a national problem. "We'll just have to bite the bullet this year and go along with administration," said Young.

It's YOUR Money
by Joyce Brisbois

RETIREMENT FOR COUPLES

The new tax law enhances retirement planning for married couples. If a spouse doesn't work, the maximum contribution to an IRA for him or her has risen from $250 to $2,000, even if the working spouse is covered by an employer's plan. (This starts to phase out when the family adjusted gross income goes over $150,000.)

There are more and more two-income families these days, and often both are entitled to stash away as much as $10,000 in a 401(k). What if they can't afford to take the whole $20,000 out of the family budget? Best bet then is to maximize the contribution of the younger spouse--the whole $10,000 limit if allowed--and save a lesser amount for the other spouse (assuming that both employers match contributions the same way). This works for IRAs, too.

Result: a larger amount--the younger spouse's retirement account--will be sheltered several years longer from the mandatory withdrawals that start at age 70 1/2. Get more from your retirement savings. We've got some good ideas for you at

by AMY PETERSON

WILMINGTON - She sings from the soul and conducts a lively show so dynamic it leaves people young and old, from Vermont all the way down to Tennessee, basking in her symphonic grooves. Who's this you ask? None other than Wilmington's own very talented Vykki Vox.

Vox, who has been within the realms of professional singing for the past 16 years, has just recently been the topic of international rave reviews for her third CD titled, "Woman's Touch." The CD consists of five original, self written diverse tracks that attract jazz, rhythm and blues, and rock fans alike.

However, the CD is just not enough to captivate the true talent Vox has. Anyone who witnesses Vox render the energetic and passionate power of her vocal chords at a live performance, is left with a chill up their spine and a yearning for more. She has the ability to move just about any crowd she performs for, due to her exceptional vocal range.

Vox got her start in the music business at the age of 18. "I was a closet singer. Then one day I answered an ad and ended up in a rock band in Lowell," she said. Vox sang with the band for a while but said that lack of dedication by fellow band members was eventually what drove her away. "I found a lot of people are not dedicated, and I am."

A brief brush with the world of rock music allowed Vox to realize that her true passion was in developing a feel good, fiery sound that would hasten the listening pleasures of both herself and her audience. After several years of shuffling through band members and performing various gigs, she eventually landed herself in the middle of an extraordinary mix of gifted musicians, who call themselves the Soul Searchers. March 17 marked the band's four year anniversary.

Vox, and her keyboard player and lyrical co-writer, Dave Osoff are the band's only original members. The remaining members have been acquired through the years. Vox said, "This is a very talented group of musicians, with them and that is what makes their playing so great."

The Soul Searchers now consist of Osoff, lead guitarist Sam Hooper, drummer GW Pope, bassist, Justin Kolack, and percussionist Alan Tauber. All are veterans in the music industry, having played with various artists prior to the Soul Searchers.

When I met with Vox last week prior to taking in her Saturday night gig at the Stone Church in New Market, N.H., I learned that not only is her dedication to music genuine, but that she has a personality to match.

The radiant glow in her eyes when speaking of her musical career provided me with more answers than words ever could. Eagerness to answer every question thrown her way about life and music left a positive richness in the air.

When I asked her if there was a feeling or sensation that she receives when she is on stage performing for an audience of 10 or 10,000 people, she lit up and said, "I feel free. I feel so good and energetic. When I smile and when I put music out there it's the best feeling feeding back from the audience."

Vox claims that the most exciting gig that she has ever performed was at the Black Diamond Club during the Beale Street Music Festival in Memphis, Tenn. "There were a lot of people there because it is a very big tourist spot and it was great to see so many people responding to my music." In fact, coordinators of the event liked Vox so much that they invited her to be part of the annual festivities once again in April.

For the time being, Vox is keeping herself busy performing in the New England area with frequent ventures to New York City. She has also been invited to Marietta, Ga. at the end of March to be an act in Rockfest '98, a event that places the country's finest musicians together in one show.

Being a performer is Vox's full time job. During the day she tries to pull together the business aspects of the job by booking shows and making the necessary contacts to increase the band's playing sphere. Not to mention time spent rehearsing and writing new material, most of which is based on her personal life experiences.

"Woman's Touch," the first song on her latest CD of the same title is about how the world is sometimes a bit disheveled and needs nothing more than a woman's touch. Another track, "Alone," Vox says, "Is a song about growing up. Many people think it is a love song, but it's not. It is about being content with yourself and that's what is important."

When I walked into the rustic new Hampshire watering hole at the Stone Church to watch Vox perform on Saturday night I did not know what type of show to expect. The small bar room, a favorite spot for the area's college students and "townies" to kick back at week's end portrayed a quaint laid back type atmosphere, that initially appeared to be a bit of a sleeper. That was until Vykki Vox hit the stage. Other than a 30 minute interview and two listening reviews of her CD "Woman's Touch," I knew nothing of Vox and the capability she had with a microphone and the presence of a stage.

The Soul Searchers kicked off the first set by showcasing the bluesy instrumental lead-in to "Woman's Touch." Almost immediately, the toe tapping and head bopping beats brought a breath of fresh air into the smoke clad room. I too was instantaneously doused into the rhythmic feel of the music.

Next came Vox herself. From beginning to end, her natural stage persona and wondrous voice brought color to the music, which protruded through the atmosphere providing a refreshing twist with each new song. The audience was completely captivated by Vox and her confident non-stop progression of intensity.

Just when I thought I grasped the style of her music, she for a twist. Perhaps she is right when she said that there is no one category to place her music in. "people always want you to put your music in a neat little package, but I can't do that with mine because there is just so many different styles wrapped into one."

The Soul Searchers, however, should not lose any of the credit for their astounding stage performance. The array of musical talent that exists behind Vox makes the show even more worthwhile to soak in. The band had 20 something's to 50 something's out on the dance floor swinging and dancing to the beats.

Overall Vox's performance turned a small barroom into a jazzy, funky, jilted room of fun and frolic. I was simply blown away by the live performance I witnessed. By far, one of the most diverse and entertaining shows my eyes have ever seen.

In fact, the thought that continuously raced through my mind was "Why haven't they made it big time yet?" This band puts on a show that is definitely worth seeing and hearing.

Music critics from all over the state agree. Vox has received accolades from both the Boston Globe and Boston Herald's writers who have called her music "a standout for its enthusiasm, variety and invention - steamy, strong, confident vocals."

Big things are in store for Vykki Vox and the Soul Searchers. They have just started to get air play on local radio stations, and Vox says that some stations in Europe have been giving "Woman's Touch" an occasional run. "I have received some letters and e-mail from people in Europe requesting my CD. I would really love to go over there and tour," she said.

Anyone who would like to check out Vox's music may visit her web site www.VykkiVox.com for information on group bio's, upcoming shows or how to purchase CD's. Vox's next live performance in the local area is March 19 from 9:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. at Tuscano's Restaurant located on Route 38 in Tewksbury.

Vykki Vox will appear tonight at WCTV

Wilmington man arraigned

WILMINGTON - A Wilmington man has been arraigned on charges that he fraudulently collected more than $7,000 in workers' compensation benefits from his insurer, Attorney General Scott Harshbarger announced.

David Palazzo, 35, was arraigned in Lawrence District Court late March 10 on one count of workers' compensation fraud and one count of larceny over $250.

On August 27, 1990, Palazzo allegedly suffered a work related injury to his left knee while he was employed by the Lazaro Paving Corporation of Acton. Palazzo allegedly reported the injury and had surgery to repair the knee. He was on temporary total disability until February 27, 1992, and on partial disability from February 28, 1992 through July 8, 1994.

An investigation allegedly revealed that Palazzo was employed at G&G Auto Sales in Tewksbury from January 10, 1994 through April 1994. An Employee Earnings Report for the period of November 6, 1993 through November 23, 1994 obtained by the Liberty Mutual Insurance Company, Palazzo allegedly did not declare any earnings from G&G. As a result, Palazzo allegedly fraudulently collected $7,054.38 in benefits from Liberty Mutual from January 10, 1994 until July 8, 1994.

Massachusetts law requires people collecting workers' compensation benefits to report any changes in their ability to work, or to inform the insurer of jobs they had while they collected benefits.

If convicted, Palazzo faces a maximum penalty of two and a half years in jail and fines of up to $35,000.

Assistant Attorney General Sean J. Kealy of Harshbarger's Insurance Fraud Division is prosecuting the case. Gail E. DeBettencourt of Massachusetts Insurance Fraud Bureau investigated.

Join the Stream Team

WILMINGTON/TEWKSBURY - The Shawsheen River stream team project is in its third year and the Merrimack River Watershed Council has invited new and old volunteers to join stream teams. This season volunteers are needed for shoreline surveys, water quality monitoring, stream flow and rain gauging, and benthic macroinvertebrate studies. Last year over 100 dedicated volunteers participated in the project with great success. The project is growing and it is hoped the volunteer pool grows with it.

A volunteer recruitment and re-orientation meeting for the middle and upper sections of the Shawsheen, including the towns of Tewksbury, Wilmington, Billerica, Bedford, Burlington, Woburn, Lexington, Lincoln and Concord will be held at the Billerica Town Hall March 24, at 7 p.m. in Room C. This meeting will involve an introduction to the program from MRWC, followed by group planning and goal setting for the season. Everyone is welcome to attend and become a leader for a Shawsheen stream team and help take care of the Shawsheen Watershed.

The Babysitting Co-op recently made an excursion to visit the Wilmington Fire Department. Most of the children were pleased with their new red hats, and the ladder truck was a hit with all of them.

Babysitting Co-op not just sitting there

By LISA CARRIERE

WILMINGTON - One might think that Wilmington's Baby-sitters Co-op would involve an awful lot of baby-sitting. Well, it does, but it also encompasses so very much more.

The co-op was established so long ago, no one even knows who originated the idea anymore. According to co-director Barbara Callahan the group has been intact for at least fifteen years. It is currently limited to twenty five families. Each family pays five dollars in dues annually, and that small amount money goes to a wide variety of things. Mothers meet monthly to decide on a calendar of events. At the March meeting there will be a guest speaker who is a Wilmington teacher and will speak about preparing children for kindergarten. Each meeting has a theme, for this meeting it will be "Appetizer" night. Other themes on the calendar are a blender party, a costume swap, a Yankee Candle, salad night, and low fat dessert night. All meetings are held at members homes.

There are weekly playground mornings, playgroups, couples nights out, seasonal activities and theme parties for children and families. The Co-op also organizes a soccer group, pool parties, beach days, field days, a Mothers Day brunch and. Oh yes, babysitting. Members earn baby-sitting credits on a point system. Each new member starts with five points. To drop off your child with another member for an hour would cost you one point. Dinner time, night time and weekends cost more. If you go in the hole, as many do, you may buy back points at one dollar each, maxing out at twenty.

The co-op's secretary keeps track of everyone's points, and also a master list of emergency contacts, doctors' names and numbers, allergies and of course where the parents will be. There are currently twenty five families and fifty nine children.

At this point, the organization cannot take any new members because of its size. Callahan says, "It's great for the kids. We're like one big family. Anyone can call anyone else for anything." There is already a lengthy waiting list, and perhaps after learning of this group there will be enough interest for some motivated mom to begin a mirror group. Anyone interested in doing so may feel free to contact either co-director Barbara Callahan at 658-0227 or Terri Folk 658-4645 for more information.

With Anne Coviello

Julie Henning to wed Michael Sims

Wilmington - Dan and Carol Henning of Monona, WI, announce the engagement of their daughter, Julie Carol, to Michael Alan Sims, son of Joseph and Mary Sims, of Wilmington, MA.

Miss Henning is a 1987 graduate of Monona Grove High School and is currently employed by J C Penney as a Merchandising Assistant.

Mr. Sims is a 1989 graduate of Shawsheen Valley Technical High School. He is employed as an Aviation Electrician at Stead Aviation in Manchester, NH.

A May wedding is planned in Monona, WI.

By ANNE COVIELLO

TEWKSBURY - Former Wilmington resident, Evelyn Olivari, who now lives in Tewksbury, was thrilled last week when she tuned in to the Miss USA pageant. Shawnae Jebbia, of Mansfield, was crowned the new Miss USA for 1998. Mrs. Olivari became familiar with the Miss Massachusetts contestant early last year when she came into Chantilly Place, a bridal shop in Lowell, (formerly of Tewksbury), and had the privilege of assisting Ms. Jebbia in the selection of a gown for the local Miss Massachusetts competition.

Mrs. Olivari resided in Wilmington for many years with her late husband, Robert, and two daughters, Elizabeth and Theresa. She worked as a cashier for Elia's Country Store but later developed an interest in retailing and decided to try her hand at working in an area bridal shop after becoming acquainted with Arnaldo Silva, the owner and operator of Chantilly Place.

Evelyn Olivari and Anne Coviello posed together at a recent wedding Impressed by Mr. Silva's keen sense of style, Mrs. Olivari called upon him to design the bridal headpieces that each of her daughters wore for their weddings. He also helped her choose the mother of the bride ensembles that she proudly wore on each daughters special day. Mrs. Olivari was so delighted with Mr. Silva's work that she went to work for him in his Tewksbury store. "I always trust Arnaldo's choices in selecting clothes that reflect each individuals personality," stated Mrs. Olivari.

Chantilly Place has been the choice for many pageant contestants and it's clear that Arnaldo Silva's fashion sense has made his designs stand out from the rest. Though Miss USA had originally re-visited Chantilly Place to purchase another ready-made gown, a consultation proved that an original creation for the pageant might have a greater impact. And so it did, with magnificent results.

Miss USA's breathtaking ensemble was carefully designed and sewed by Mr. Silva. It consisted of a strapless, champagne-colored gown, in silk chiffon with a matching scarf. Austrian crystals were painstakingly sewn on individually and by hand. Mr. Silva also custom designed her choker and earrings out of the same type of Austrian crystals. It was this gown that took top honors at the Miss USA pageant held in Shreveport, LA this past week. Silva also created the interview dress that Miss Jebbia wore, a black stretch knit, embellished with hundreds of rhinestones.

"She was a joy to work with," was Mrs. Olivari's response when asked about her feelings toward the new Miss USA. According to Mrs. Olivari, congratulations and flowers have been pouring into the bridal shop on a daily basis since the news came out. Evelyn Olivari has no reservations when she says that Arnaldo Silva is "a brilliant designer." "It's a wonderful experience working with him and watching his creativity flow."

Mrs. Olivari, along with the entire staff at Chantilly Place, wishes to send out sincere congratulations to Shawnae Jebbia, Massachusetts' new Miss USA.

The proceeds from these "Cootie Parties" are used for many worthwhile purposes within the Emblem Club. They include support of various charities, regular donations to the food pantries in both Tewksbury and Wilmington, donations to the Salvation Army, and scholarships for local students from Tewksbury and Wilmington High Schools.

This fundraiser is open to the general public and always proves to be a fun-filled time for partygoers who gather into groups of four to play the game of "Cootie."

DECA brings home 22 awards

by BEN DeGENNARO
WILMINGTON - On Sunday, March 8, approximately 750 students from across the state of Massachusetts gathered at the Ferncroft Conference Center to participate in the 39th annual Mass-DECA State Career Development Conference. Wilmington High School was one of the more than 25 schools that participated in this year's conference. Of the 18 students who attended the DECA District Conference in February, 10 qualified to attend the State Conference. In order to qualify, students must rank in the top eight in their categories. Seniors Ben DeGennaro, Kristin Flynn, Ryan Harrison, Tara Konaxis, Todd Konieczka, Rebecca Rogers, Kerri Sullivan, Scott Swiezynski, and Dave Ward, and Junior W.A. Shea Marden all had victories at the District Conference. The Conference began with dinner being served, buffet style. That evening, each of the students proceeded to his/her assigned testing area for the first of two written tests. Ben DeGennaro (Quick Serve Restaurant Management), Kristin Flynn (Marketing Management, Management Level), Ryan Harrison (Retail Merchandising, Management Level), Tara Konaxis (Apparel and Accessories Marketing, Management Level), Todd Konieczka (Food Marketing, Associate Level), Rebecca Rogers (Food Marketing, Management Level), Kerri Sullivan (Retail Merchandising, Associate Level), Scott Swiezynski (Full Service Restaurant Management), Dave Ward (Vehicles and Petroleum, Management Level) and W.A. Shea Marden (Services Marketing, Management Level).

The first test was a 100 multiple choice written exam based upon the student's category. That evening, a karaoke party was held in the hotel's main conference center. This lasted until about 11:45, when students returned to their rooms in order to prepare for the following day.

Breakfast was served beginning at 6:30, and the second written test began at 7:30. The second written test was a free enterprise economics test. After the second written test, the first of two oral tests began. Each student would be given a "role play: situation and would play out the situation with a judge.

All during the day, a series of workshops was held. A workshop on the "ABC's of HIV" was presented by Ms. Lonnie McAdieu of the AIDS Action Committee. This workshop included speakers from the AIDS Action Committee who spoke about HIV and AIDS. The DECA North Atlantic Regional Vice President of Delta Epsilon Chi, Jeff Cartee presented a workshop entitled "Lost at Sea." This workshop focused on the benefits of working together as a team. Students participated in a team based activity in this workshop. Delvin Franklin, National DECA President gave a workshop called "personality Zoo." In this workshop, Delvin showed how different personalities effect working together on a team. He also gave advice on how to interact with other people on a team. Brian Linkous, North Atlantic Regional Vice President offered a workshop on "Animated Speaking." Each participant in this workshop had the opportunity to take part in a group presentation.

Each of these workshops was informative and well presented. Later on in the day, students participated in their second oral test. Dinner was served at 5:30, and the Achievement Awards Session began at 8:30 p.m.

At the awards presentation on Monday evening, Ben DeGennaro, Kristin Flynn, Ryan Harrison, Todd Konieczka, Rebecca Rogers, Scott Swiezynski, Dave Ward and W.A. Shea Marden all received certificates for excellence on the written exams.

Ben DeGennaro placed third in his category for the written exams; W.A. Shea Marden placed third in his category for the written exams; the role play and received a medal. Kerri also finished in the top 10 in her category.

Ryan Harrison finished in the top 10 in his category and received a plaque. Ben DeGennaro received a second place medal for the second role play and finished in the top 10 in his category. Scott Swiezynski received a first place medal for the first role play and finished in third place overall in his category.

W.A. Shea Marden received a trophy for finishing second overall in his category. Because they finished third and second, Scott Swiezynski and W.A. Shea Marden are eligible to attend the National DECA Conference in Denver, Colorado next week.

All students are to be congratulated for their outstanding effort. The conference was outstanding and everyone had a lot of fun.

The entire DECA chapter would like to thank Mrs. Frances Boudreau for "chaperoning" us on this extended field trip and for offering her guidance and support as our DECA Chapter Advisor. Without her, we would be lost. Thanks for everything!

At present we are trying to raise funds in order that Shea and Scott can go to the National Convention in Denver, Colorado. On Monday, March 23, buy a pizza at Papa Ginos and help our winners make it to the Nationals. Anyone wishing to help out in addition to this, please call WHS and ask for the DECA advisor.

Rebecca Rogers placed first in her category for the written exams, and Scott Swiezynski placed third in his category for the written exams.

The next morning, students ate breakfast and attended the final awards session. At this awards session:

Dave Ward received a plaque for finishing in the top 10 in his category; Kerri Sullivan placed first in

Hands on experience through a club

by COLLEEN MURPHY
WILMINGTON - Medical Careers Club is a club at Wilmington High School (WHS) that is for students who are interested in exploring careers in health care through field trips, and career days and nights. Medical Careers Club is also a special club that helps students prepare for their future careers in the medical field. This club offers many useful activities that help students better understand careers in the medical field. This is the type of club that helps students decide whether their career choice is right for them by hands-on experience.

In 1985, Mrs. Norma Rushton, current nurse at WHS came to WHS from the Middle Schools. When Mrs. Rushton arrived at the high school, former Principal Paul Fleming suggested the idea of a Medical Careers Club to Mrs. Rushton. She thought it was a great idea. Together Mrs. Rushton and Mr. Fleming worked hard to create this club and its activities.

Medical Careers Club also encourages kids to get involved in Bread and Roses. Bread and Roses is a place in Lawrence that serves meals to 250-300 homeless people every day. Wilmington High School prepares one meal a month, and volunteers from WHS cook the food and donate it to Bread and Roses.

This year Medical Careers Club is doing fund raising for its graduating seniors going into the medical field. The club is also planning two or three field trips this year. Some field trips from the past have been to New England Rehabilitation Hospital for presentations from the staff about what constitutes rehabilitation. They have also gone to Brigham and Women's Hospital for a tour and incite. Another place the club has visited was the Harvard Medical School, and Warren Anatomical Museum.

Medical Careers Club is also participating in a community service learning program with Winchester Hospital. This is a mentoring program allowing students to participate in a nine week internship within an area of interest (nursing, radiology, etc.). The purpose of this program is to provide service to Winchester Hospital, and in turn have a wonderful learning experience. This is twice a week for an hour and a half after school. Students receive High School credit for this service.

This year the officers of Medical Careers Club include President, Dorothy Medeiros, Vice President, David Fish, Secretary, Laura Winn and Treasurer Adrian Mendoza. There is an average of about 30 kids involved in the club each year, and interest is continuing to grow. Anyone who has a desire to enter the medical field can join the club.

The advisor to the Medical Careers Club is Mrs. Norma Rushton. She has been in the Wilmington School system for 25 years, and has been at the high school for 13 years.

She is very enthusiastic about health care jobs, and about helping kids explore careers. She loves working with the students, and finds it both challenging and fulfilling.

Medical Careers Club is a great experience for any student considering the health care field as a career. This club is very informative, as well as very enjoyable. I would like to thank Mrs. Rushton for all of her hard work with this club and would like to wish her luck in upcoming years.

WILMINGTON - March is Women's History Month and one way women might celebrate is to review the role Social Security plays in the life of today's women, according to Thomas M. Abbott, manager of the Lowell Social Security Office.

"Women stand a greater risk of losing benefits by not staying alert to their Social Security rights and responsibilities. Social Security may affect women as wives, mothers, widows, workers, divorcees and homemakers.

Although the Social Security program is the same for both men and women, the results may be different because of different work patterns, level of earnings and life spans. "Women today expect to live longer than before. In the 65 and older age group, women outnumber men by three to two and by age 80 it is five to one. Nearly three out of four older people living in poverty are women," Mr. Abbott further states "Did you know that, as a widow, you can get benefits as early as age 60, or age 50 if disabled, even if you've never worked under Social Security? Of if you alternate between homemaking and a career, you need to make sure you have recent work to maintain your disability coverage? Or that, as a divorced spouse, you may be entitled to retirement, survivors, or disability benefits on your ex-spouse's Social Security record if the marriage lasted at least 10 years."

The important thing is that you need to recognize the need to stay on top of your Social Security protection. For more information, call Social Security at its toll free number, 1-800-722-1213. Ask for the booklet "Social Security: What Every Woman Should Know."

The center will be having its monthly "Tea Social" but this month with a different twist - we will be celebrating birthday's of the month. It will be Wednesday, March 25, 1998 at 1:30 p.m. (Contributed by the Coldwell, Banker and Hunnenman).

I would also like to take this opportunity to thank the Royal Dynasty Restaurant for donating gift certificates for our March Social that was held at the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks. The seniors are very appreciative and look forward to using them.

to educate people on how to solve the problems themselves or to tell them where they should be calling instead. For example, the skunk was flushed out with a garden hose, and the bat in the chimney required a call to a nuisance or pest control company.

The least glamorous part of Davis' job is cleaning up roadkill. But even during this gruesome discussion she had presence of mind to make a point to the public, "If there is a dead animal in the street in the middle of the night, most likely it will still be there in the morning. Hence, you really don't need to make that phone call at midnight." Davis rises at 4 a.m.-she'll be there early to pick it up. Promise. However, here she has a chance to make another point, "If there is a dead animal on your property-it is your responsibility." "Doesn't sound fair-but that really is the law," says Davis.

A typical day in the life of Ellen Davis begins at 4 a.m.. After she feeds her horses and cats, she cleans the bird [in the kitchen sink], cleans the cats' box and cleans the horses and their stable. She actually vacuums it. Ellen Davis loves animals, especially her own. Sitting at her kitchen table she calls "babies" and they all come running. They jump onto her lap until there is no more room. And while she is calling her "babies," "Charlie" the bird is calling "Danha" the dog. Charlie screams for everyone, even Davis.

After tending to her own flock, Davis begins her work day. By eight she is at the police station, picking up whatever calls have come in during night. Then she returns every one of them. She gets calls about barking dogs, loose neighborhood dogs, feeding stray cats, ("Don't do this, it leads to wildlife on your doorstep looking for food," she warns), spaying and neutering. People call wondering where they can find a certain type of dog or cat or even horse. She logs all of these calls then begins digging for information. She calls pounds, checks the Internet, scans the newspaper, asks friends. Her work is clearly her life.

Davis is also responsible for annual barn inspections and does quarantines, too. In twelve years she has many humorous moments. Once, as she was coming off the exit ramp from Route 93, she saw something run in front of her car. Of course she stopped. It was a goat. Davis stopped traffic. She contacted the police station. A trucker stopped and offered to help. She thanked him, and although he stayed, (probably for the show) told him she could handle it. She then began making goat noises. The goat eased towards her, she continued with her noises and tossed some dog biscuits into the car [old dog trick]. He followed and she head locked him. Victory!

Davis writes very few citations. "I prefer to educate, it's better for everybody. I tend to sympathize, because I like people. It comes more from my heart than my brain." She does become very serious, however, when it comes to a few points of animal education. "Please spay or neuter your pet. The animal will be happier, it gives them a longer life span, and they don't stray as much. Please abide by the leash law. If not for your neighbors sake, then for the sake and safety of your animal."

So think about those calls before you make them. Although she is more than happy to return them all, but many of the calls she receives are better directed elsewhere. Wilmington uses the Andover Animal Hospital as a pound. Davis will keep hurt or abandoned animals there for ten days. During this time Davis feverishly tries to find the animals a home. She is truly a town employee who is dedicated to her job.

Influential on kids

Chip Bruce: An officer and a gentleman

BY JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

There is not too many sacred things anymore, especially in today's society. But, if there is one true thing that sticks out in most minds of what this town is about, who its characters and favorite people are, it's safe to say that Chip Bruce would be the one to come away with the award with ease.

Whenever the day comes when D.A.R.E. Officer Bruce decides to hang up his long lasting smile and determination of helping every single kid in this town one way or another, will probably be one of the greatest town gatherings of all time. He truly fits the bill of a mentor to all that have crossed paths with him.

Bruce is 38 years old now and he has been dealing with kids of all ages since he was 14. Even though it seems as if he has played and been an all-star in every sport, he has never played a minute of a high school, college or professional game in any sport. But, if this town ever lost the officer and assistant high school soccer and hockey coach, it would never, ever be the same. He is a kid for all intensive purposes, a kid who is tough and strict, yet has the biggest heart of anyone around. Deep inside the layers of his heart, are monstrous openings for each and every kid to climb into. He is the epitome of a role model, the epitome of an all-around very knowledgeable, very likeable person with a smile, personality and demeanor that could never be forgotten. He is very unique and opinionated, yet, loyal and extremely interesting, but more importantly, he's an excellent role model, an ideal athletic coach, a father figure to some a friend to all, and a person who won't be forgotten.

"I'll remember him for the rest of my life," said Wilmington High junior as well as hockey and soccer player, Justin Vallas. "He's an all-around great guy on and off the field."

For Bruce, he couldn't be happier than his now. He knows every kid in this town and every kid certainly knows him. Besides being the D.A.R.E. Officer and the soccer and hockey assistant coach, he also has started a lot of clubs and organizations from scratch, all on volunteer time. He is entering his fifth year as the D.A.R.E. Officer, helping children deal with drugs, alcohol, pressure and everyday decision making. He also acts as a guidance counselor. With that, he has switched hats, helping to form a youth wrestling club, an intermediate school soccer club, intermediate school basketball teams and hosting basketball tournaments in town as well. He is one of the founding members of the youth center where he still sits on the board of directors which deals with a number of things including chaperoning dances. On top of that he also has been very much involved with many other school activities such as field trips, camping and wilderness trips, ski trips and outdoor life. In between all of that, he tries to help, cope and deal with many children whether first graders with home problems or tenth graders with girlfriend problems, he has been their shoulder to lean on. He has always been there for everyone, not just athletes. Those who have good news or bad news, problems or wishes, or even those who have cried out for help, tend to go to Chip Bruce rather than their own families or friends because he insists and believes that things will and can get better.

"I go to work every single day with a smile on my face and I don't think everyone can say that," Bruce said. "I can tell you that I love my job, I wouldn't give it up for the world. Some days I come home wanting to cry - I just feel for these kids as some parents just don't know how to parent. It drives me crazy. Kids shouldn't have to go through what some of them do today."

Coping with kids and their problems at home, in school, or on the playing field is what Bruce is all about. He says that just talking to them inspires him, knowing that they are sincere, yet innocent and just that kids. Where as teenagers are much different with peer pressure, drugs, alcohol, college, romance dealings and the incredible journey of being a teenager, Bruce doesn't get the same enjoyment from dealing with them. That he says he treasures, kids of all ages.

He has inspired many, filling minds with useful information as well as filling hearts with confidence, self pride and esteem. He couldn't even explain the part of his job that he personally takes the most pride in, he explained his honest answer as "corny."

"The things that people don't know that I do," he said. "Giving the extra time to a kid who needs it - that's why I do what I do. I made more money when I worked the midnight to 8 [a.m.] shift [on the Wilmington Police Force] than I do now. But you can't replace monetary awards, you can't put a dollar to the enjoyment you get from making a difference to a kid. [Being the D.A.R.E. Officer] has been such an eye-opener for me. I've seen so many kids who are needy, not money wise, but needy for someone to care about them."

As a teenager himself, Bruce went to Austin Prep because Wilington High didn't offer Latin which was mandatory for anyone who was seeking a job as a veterinarian which he was. Before he finished his first year of high school and athletics, Bruce was told that he could no longer play sports. His aorta collapsed, therefore he needed heart surgery.

"I've always had such a respect for team sports. I guess it's because I missed it, my opportunity was taken away. I guess that's why I have such a passion for high school sports," he said.

After his surgery, Bruce helped out Frank Simmons the head coach of the Wilmington boys under 14 youth soccer team just before his 15th birthday. One game Simmons got thrown out and Bruce had to coach the team. The next season, Simmons, Bruce's true mentor for becoming a coach, left the team and Bruce was named his replacement. Over the next few years, Bruce coached youth soccer and youth hockey in town before volunteering his time as Steve Scanlon's assistant as the junior varsity hockey coach at WHS in the late 80's. Scanlon and Bruce also teamed up as coaches starting in 1989 at Westford Academy heading the boys soccer team. The two of them enjoyed many fine seasons, including a state championship season. This past season, Bruce was named the assistant soccer coach under Steve's father, Dick, as well as the intermediate school soccer director at WHS.

Already a tough task to beat the defending state champions, former Wilmington High girls basketball coach and current Andover High girls basketball coach, Jim Tildsley, knew he had to contain Jillian Danker on top of things in the division one state championship game played on Saturday. However, either case, win or lose, he would always remember this team and the past two magical years.

So in the end of it all, Tildsley's team were defeated by Minnechaug High, 55-40. The game wasn't a 15-point blow out, or not until the end when Andover couldn't contain Danker, who poured in 26 points with 12 of those down the stretch. Again in either case, it doesn't matter, the score that is. They made it there and they lost to what some have said the best girls basketball team they've ever seen.

"They were a better team," said Tildsley. "Besides my wife and kids, this team is the best thing to happen to me. I will always remember these past two years. It's hard right now seeing the girls crying in the locker room. They have absolutely nothing to be ashamed of."

Andover needed big games from their top guns of Charlotte and Sarah Muller as well as Kristin Foley. In the first half, Charlotte was held scoreless, while, Sarah had 8 and Foley had 5 as the team was down by three at 24-21. In the second half it was Sarah who was held scoreless, while, Charlotte scored 6 and Foley added four more. Obviously that wasn't enough and Minnechaug's defense was outstanding to say the least.

NOVENA TO ST. JUDE

May the sacred heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world now and forever. Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us, and St. Jude, the worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude helper of the hopeless, pray for us. Say this prayer nine times a day for nine days, by the 8th day your prayer will have been answered. This prayer has never been known to fail. Publication promised. My prayers have been answered.

A PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN

(never know to fail)

O Most beautiful Flower of Mount Carmel, Fruitful Vine, Splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in this my request. O Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my Mother.

O Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart, to succor me in this request; there are none that can withstand your power.

O, show me herein you are my Mother. O Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to Thee. (3 times) Sweet Mother, I place this request in your hands. (3 times) Say for 3 consecutive days and publish. God Bless

Academy Awards for Wilmington and Tewksbury high athletes

BY JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

As the Oscar Awards are coming up, I figured to give out my annual awards after each athletic season, as I always do. This time around, I combined the awards with Wilmington and Tewksbury. So here goes:

Best Performance by a Male Athlete: Dave Shunamon, Tewksbury wrestling; This one was a piece of cake, I mean how can I not give to him when he went 45-0 this season, and 99-0 in the past two years.

Best Performance by a Female Athlete: Jenn Takach, Tewksbury track; Again, with no disrespect to the Wilmington athletes, but Takach completed another successful season in which she was undefeated in every single event she did in meets against the MVC.

Best Supporting role by a Male Athlete: Jeff Arciero, WHS Basketball; Had Arciero not have had his injury a few years back, he might be headed to a division one program right now. But with his injury, he was terrific in his role behind iron horse Scott Swiezynski.

Best Supporting role by a female athlete: Tiffany Driscoll, Tewksbury track; With her talents and accomplishments, it's no wonder why the girls finished another successful season. She was of many big horses to contend with behind Takach.

Best Actor Award: Jeff Nelson, Tewksbury Boys Basketball Coach; I don't mean any disrespect here, this is more of a funny award than anything. But I think Nelson is a riot on the sidelines, between his faces, and his stomping of his feet.

Best Actress: Lindsay Bruno, WHS Basketball; Again the faces are the key here and her expressions are very comical. The way she plays the game is what has her get this award. She is always hustling, indeed so much, that she ends up flopping around everywhere.

Best Performance by a freshman male: Eric Swiezynski, WHS Basketball; Everyone knows that this kid is going to be a star once he gets used to the pace of the game as well as once all of the teams stop picking on him.

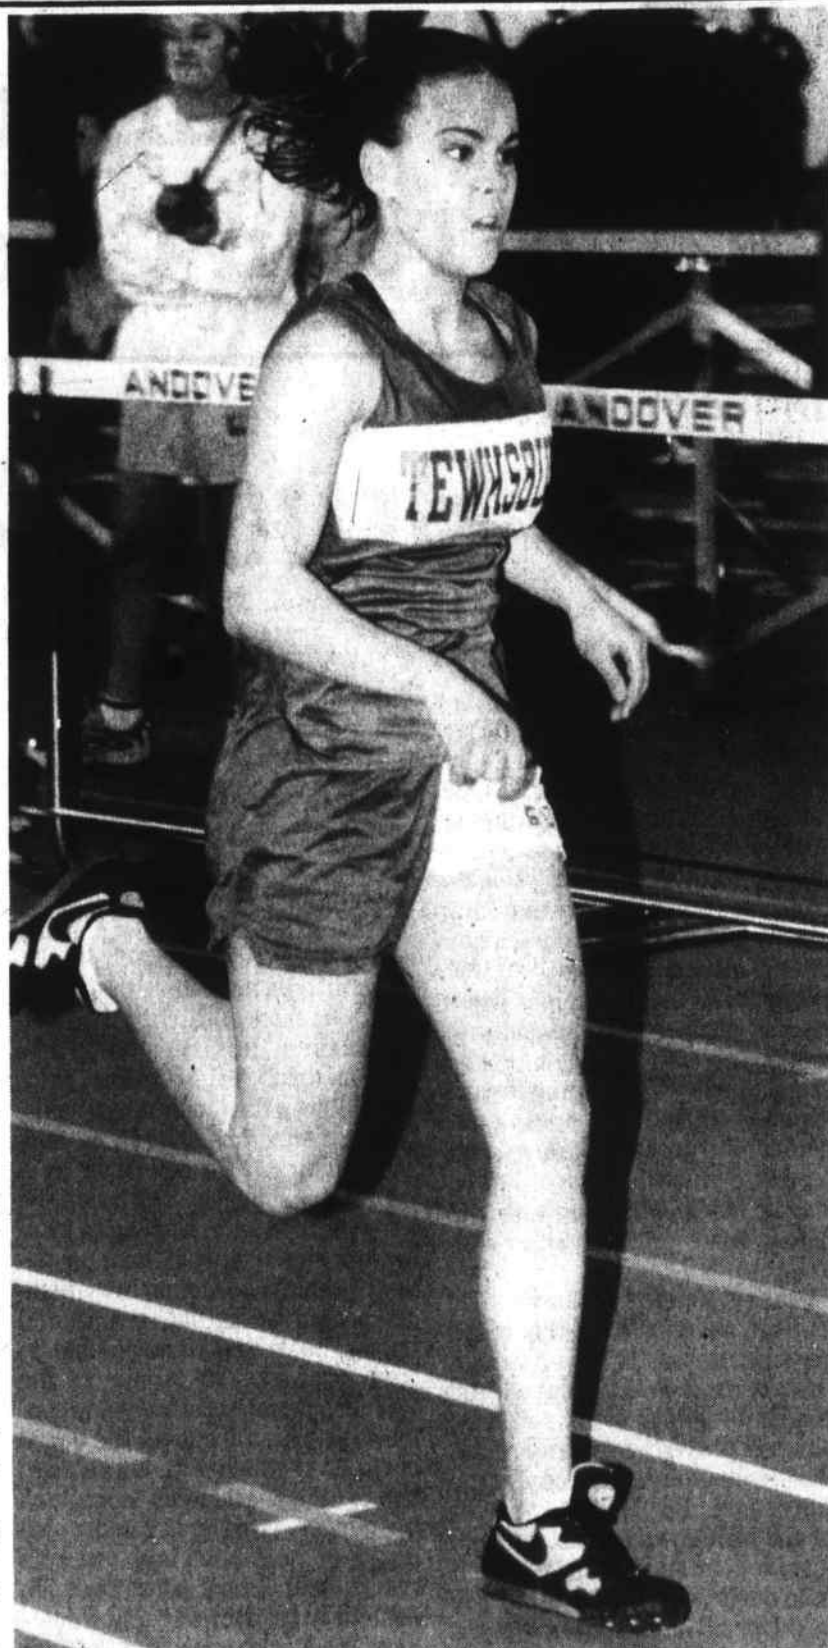

Best Performance by a freshman female: Kerri Aherne, Tewksbury Track; With her work habits and determination it won't be long until she will be bringing home many, many records.

Best Performance on a consistent basis by a male: (tie) Scott Swiezynski, WHS Basketball and Justin Vallas, WHS Hockey; Every night both of them brought the same effort, attitude and game face to help the team win, period whether they scored big or not.

Best Performance on a consistent basis by a female: Laura Winn, WHS Track; Arguably the hardest worker ever.

Best Performance by a coach: Pat McAndrews TMHS Girls Basketball; A new breath of fresh air for a program that needed it so desperately. Sure he has made mistakes, but he is extremely enthusiastic which carries a program a long way, like the second round of the state tournament.

Best Performance by the most underrated athlete: Josh Westaway, Tewksbury Hockey against Wilmington; All I have to say is his one-handed goal through everyone.

...While, Tiffany Driscoll has racked up another award for herself while a member of the Tewksbury track team.

Final Four contest becoming interesting

BY JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The deadline has passed for the fifth annual Town Crier NCAA Final Four contest sponsored by SuperStar Video of Tewksbury. This time again the responses were overwhelming and we would like to extend a thank you to all of you who have participated.

Of all of the entrees, four people are still perfect with their four guesses. Right now the tournament is down to 16 teams and after Friday it will dwindle down to 8. All four of the entrees who are still correct are all different which makes this year's contest interesting. There are two women in the finals right now and that's something new this year as well. Out of the four correct guesses as of now, three of them predicted the same team in the East, West and South divisions, while they split between two teams in the Midwest Region. Friday's games will eliminate two of the teams at that point.

After those four people, there are more than a handful of people who have three teams correct as of right now (with 25 percent of them women). Coincidentally of those guesses, every single one of them has the Midwest Region wrong as the majority of them picked Kansas. However, there are five different scenarios of those who have three teams left. After that there are also a solid group of entrees who still have two teams alive and have an outside chance of coming away with the runner-up prize.

Good Luck to those who are still alive.

Perhaps a local hoop player going to Celtics?

In case you missed it, there was an interesting piece in Sunday's Boston Globe professional basketball column by Peter May. He mentioned that former Tewksbury resident Matt Geiger, now of the Charlotte Hornets, is being coveted by the Boston Celtics as an upcoming free agent. According to May, a five million per year deal that the Celtics will have to spend will not be enough, even though Geiger's mother would love for her son to return to the New England area to play hoop. May thinks that if the Celtics can get rid of Travis Knight for pretty much nothing, that they will then have enough room to perhaps sign him. Stay tuned.

The New England Football Skills Camp will be held evenings July 20-24, for players grades eight through 12 at Bishop Fenwick High School. The camp will be under the direction of John Papas, member of 1997 Ivy League Champion Harvard University staff and will feature over 35 college and high school coaches including Wilmington's football coach Bob Almeida.

This skills camp will focus on the fundamentals that are necessary for today's player to succeed and will include workshops on speed, strength training and college recruiting. Tuition is $125.

Tewksbury boys basketball league seeks coaches

The Tewksbury Boys Basketball League is accepting application for coaches and assistant coaches for the 1998-99 sixth, seventh and eighth grade travel teams. All interested individuals should contact Rich DiPrimio at 858-3773 or Walter Elliman at 851-9011 for further information. The application deadline is March 31.

The final event of the 1997-98 TBBL season will be the senior/travel team awards banquet to be held Thursday, March 26 at 6 p.m. at the Tewksbury Elks. Parents are invited to attend the awards ceremony starting at 6:45. All senior/travel coaches should contact their players to remind them about this event.

Tewksbury Pee Wee IV's blank Lawrence

The Tewksbury Pee Wee IV youth hockey team dominated over Lawrence II at Merrimack College recently. Dave Wiley earned a shut-out in goal with a final score of 5-0. Chris Hughes scored twice in the first period as did Mike Foti. Jenna Ryan pitched in with an assist. Dan Krugh scored in the second on a setup by Rudy Cataldo. Foti closed off the scoring in the third period with his third goal for the hat trick. Wiley played very well in net, making great saves throughout the game.

WILMINGTON - Jarred Mitrano of Wilmington, represented Paul Revere in his oral book report when second grade students at the Abundant Life Christian School, Wilmington recently completed an interesting reading assignment as part of their monthly participation in the nationwide "Book It" program. The program was sponsored by Pizza Hut.

Students read an autobiography or biography of an interesting historical figure. Upon completion of the book, a posterboard book report was prepared depicting important events in the person's life or a summary of the person's life. Oral presentations were given in costume and in the "first person," as each child described his or her "life."

Wilmington Mite A's defeat North Andover, 5-3

The Wilmington Mite A youth hockey team (sponsored by First Electric Motor) won a well deserved hard fought Valley League game against North Andover by the score of 5-3. Both teams came out battling and it was North Andover who got the only goal in the first.

The Wildcats came back in the second to score four unanswered goals. The first goal was scored by Derek DeRosa, lofting a hard wrist shot from the blueline finding its way in. The second goal was a nice passing combination that started when Derek Fitzpatrick made a nice cross ice pass to Zach Church. Church found Dana Steenruggen streaking across the blue line as Dana finished it off. Wilmington continued the fine team work when Mike Emery pushed the puck up to Danny Silva who found Shane Foley breaking across center ice. Foley scored, shooting it in off the far post. Fitzpatrick rounded off the scoring in the period muscling it in for the score with an assist going to Danny Metcalfe. Sharp defense by Chris Stafford and mark Walsh in front of Brian Garrett who had another fine game in the net. Walsh broke up a two on one just as the period ended.

North Andover got back in it early in the third when they scored on a rocket of a shot breaking in off Garrett's glove. The Wildcats went back up by three when Metcalfe pushed the puck off to Walsh. Walsh shot the puck and followed it in scoring on his own rebound. Garrett made a nice glove save as the Mite A's held on for the victory.

Melrose 4 Wilmington 2

In Dual State action the Mite A's lost another tough one to Melrose by the score of 4-2. The effort was there for the Wildcats, but the Melrose netminder has just had Wilmington's number all season. Melrose went up two to zip in the first in this fast paced game. Brian Garrett stood tall in net for the Wildcats making several good saves.

In the second the Red Raiders scored on a breakaway to make it three to nothing. The Wildcats continued to pepper the Melrose goalie as Mike Emery got off a powerful wrist shot that was stopped and Derek Fitzpatrick was denied on the rebound as the puck tendered at the goal mouth. Dave Rizzo who always has a big game when playing Melrose scored with assists going to Danny Silva and Dana Steenruggen. Zach Church made a nice block, diving in front of a shot that was labeled.

The Wilmington defense was called upon to help Garrett in the third with Derek Griffin stopping a two on one and Dan Metcalfe stopping a breakaway. Garrett made a couple of dandy saves to keep the Cats in it. Fitzpatrick added a goal on a feed from Rizzo but Wilmington just couldn't tie it up. Melrose added another to close out the game. Look for the District 10 playoff results in next week's Town Crier.

Triple header at WHS Wildcat eighth grade hoop team loses nailbiter

BY JESSICA MARTIN
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington eighth grade boys basketball team suffered a tough loss to Methuen, 51-49, in a close game that came down to a free throw in the reigning seconds from last Thursday night at Wilmington High School. The Cats played more like a high school team, demonstrating stamina, capability and good sportsmanship.

The game was fast-paced and intense, parents and fans sat silently in the bleachers, engrossed in a game which the lead was never more than four points and it constantly changing hands.

Wilmington showed great skills and precision in their shots, it was not the night to be sloppy when shooting since the Methuen defense was so talented. Wilmington's defense proved a match, constantly keeping Methuen at bay. Mark Stewart and Kyle Hendricks both had tremendous games, their skills on the boards and their ability to steal the ball was the main reason that Wilmington kept the score so close.

Point guard Dave Rappoli played a major part in overcome the dominating Methuen, by refusing to give into the pressure put on him. Dave remained calm and undaunted, taking his time shooting and making sure his teammates were open before throwing a pass. Dave Aronofsky also came up big for his team, using his speed and agility to shoot and steal the ball. He certainly made his presence felt.

George Godding was a player who according to head coach Tony DeLucia, "Had been there all season for us." George made several key steals and shots. In the final seconds, he hit a free throw to cut the lead to one, but Methuen also went to the line scoring one as well for the victory.

DeLucia was upset by the close loss, but not disappointed with his team's effort by saying, "These kids are just a great group on and off the court. They hung tough, never quit, and always played hard."

DeLucia went to say that Methuen was a rival of the team, Wilmington had already played them twice this season, losing both times by two points. With a smile, DeLucia added, "These guys (Methuen) make it exciting."

In back-to-back tournaments at North Andover and North Reading the past two weekends, the eighth grade boys basketball team won championship trophies that have eluded them since fifth grade. The North Andover tournament began March 7 with a rematch against Hampstead, N.H.

Wilmington got the best of this physical contest 55-47 with David Rappoli leading the way with 14 followed by George Godding with 12, Chris McHale 10, Kyle Hendricks 9 and Mark Stewart with 7.

Next up was North Andover B. David Rappoli hit five threes and had 22 points as the Wildcats cruised 59-51 into the semifinal game against Salem, N.H.

Against league foe Salem,

Pranav Vaidya had a big first half bucket as Wilmington squeaked through the first half 20-18. This was too close for the liking of Hendricks, McHale and Godding as they combined for 30 second half points to put some distance between the teams in a 50-44 win.

The championship game pitted the Wildcats against the North Andover A team in a see-saw battle with spirited play from David Aronofsky scoring six points. Kyle Hendricks was high man for Wilmington with 16. The newly crowned champions returned home with a 48-44 victory to face Methuen in league playoff action Thursday night. The Wildcats lost a heart-breaker to Junior Franco's Rangers, 51-49 and were eliminated from the playoffs.

On Friday March 13, Wilmington traveled to the North Reading Tournament as the late entry due to the withdrawal of Masconomet. Up first in Cape Ann competition was Triton. Mark Stewart poured in 16 first half points and Chris McHale answered with 16 in the second half to subdue the pesky regional team 62-57. A triple overtime win for the Generals of Hamilton brought up a tall and powerful Danvers team.

Mark Krasnyanski and Warren Cormier worked the ball inside to McHale and Hendricks. Ryan Graham also played well down low. The punishing inside game caused Danvers to get in foul trouble and allowed point guard David Rappoli to have a field day from the perimeter in the 72-63 victory.

The Clippers of Newburyport were the last team standing in the path of the championship trophy in a game that saw all Wildcat players score. Mike Herra played an awesome defensive game and scored five points including a big three as Wilmington cruised 66-50.

The championship game was played Sunday against Tournament host North Reading. Chris McHale dominated the offensive boards picking up another 16 point first half enroute to leading the Wildcats to their second championship in as many weeks.

Seventh graders emerge as only victors behind teamwork

BY JESSICA MARTIN
Sports Correspondent

Of the three Wilmington tournament basketball teams, only the seventh grade boys team were successful in making it to the next round. The Cats came up with a 76-38 thrashing over Tewksbury on Thursday night at Wilmington High School.

The team demonstrated excellent passing skills and great teamwork. Said head coach Chuck Osgood, "They shot much better, they definitely hit some key shots. I just think they were so excited to come and play here [at the high school]."

The Wilmington offense was on fire from the get-go. Forward Ryan Tildsley scored 16 points and managed 6 steals. Pat Taylor also had a great game, coming up with 15 points and hitting several of Wilmington's key shots. Mike Jordan also contributed to Wilmington's victory, scoring 14 points and getting 8 rebounds. It was a big night as well for the Osgood brothers, Craig and Sean. Craig scored several times and stole six times as he showed off his defensive skills, while Sean gave great passes and managed a few steals of his own.

Again teamwork was the key to the team's success: People sometimes overlook the players who pass the ball and don't always come up with the greatest number of points. Taylor and Pat O'Shea had a great game, each worked hard to push the ball up to their teammates. Konstantine Fetatsidis, Mike Hiltz and Matt Dorothy also played well, contributing to the Cats win.

"Just a great team effort," Osgood commented. "These kids hustled like crazy."

Fifth graders lose close one to Reading

The first game of the triple-header belonged to the fifth graders, and despite a great effort given by both teams, the fifth grade boys team fell short, 32-24 to Reading. With the close-nit loss, the team was eliminated from any further tournament play. Nevertheless, coach Stewart was very pleased his troops.

"They all played well, the kids are good athletes," Stewart said moments after the game.

Stewart also alluded to the fact that the team was still relatively new, having played with one another for only a few weeks, while the Reading team had played much longer together.

A big reason for Reading's victory was the efforts made by its defense. Behind their strong defensive instincts, Reading repeatedly made their way down the court to Wilmington's basket, only to be shut down a few times by Cats defenders like Matt Stewart, for example.

Wilmington Squirt III's overtake Manchester

Recently the Wilmington Dual State Squirt III youth hockey team took on the pesky Manchester III team. In the prior game Manchester and Wilmington tied 0-0, but Wilmington certainly held the edge. Payback was on their minds.

In the first, both sides skated strong with both sides getting their chances. Nick Yeomelakis, Justin Roberts and Dan Tobin played smart hockey fighting in the corners, back checking yard and even getting a goal called back on them. Good team play! Finally at the end Dave Griffin duped the puck in front giving Steve Stokes the shot and of course a goal! Nice play!

Going into the second period, Billy Schultes and Donny Heenan played superb defense in their end while putting about six shots on net for offense. Meanwhile Timmy Anderson was taking care of his domain when called upon. Even with the good play of the defense, Timmy did come up with several glittering saves. It took a while but with one minute left the Cats took off. Mike Welch shot on net with his ninth overall shutout of this season. Needless to say, Jason Buckley played his heart out, getting four goals.

Wilmington Dual State Squirt III's are now 11-3-3. Go Cats and thanks, Casa di Fior for your support!

Jason Buckley crashing it to knock in his first. Russell Grant and Eric Svensson on defense also played well offensively putting the puck back in deep. It paid off with one of Eric's bouncing right and going in; again, nice goal!

Third period play saw the Cats come alive, especially Jason Buckley. At 8:17 Jason crashed the net again off a Cat shot! Score! With 7:41 left, Jason crashed the net off another Cat shot, score! Mark Pickett and Mike Earls on another line were peppering the Manchester goalie also, but to no avail. Finally, with three minutes to go, Dave shot, rebound, you guess it. Jason crashed and all skaters showing great teamwork to get Timmy

And there, he was also a big help behind the resurgence of the program and its ride to the state finals.

In 1992, Scanlon was named the head coach of the WHS ice hockey team, replacing Bill Cullen and it took an entire year for Bruce to get recognized as a brilliant up-and-coming assistant. Ed Walsh was hired for a year and when he vacated to take job as the goalie coach at UMass-Lowell, he wrote a several page recommendation on Bruce's behalf asking why he wasn't the assistant coach in the first place before Walsh came along. In either case, Scanlon a lifetime friend of Bruce's knows what he has by his side.

"If I didn't have him, I wouldn't be coaching [the WHS hockey team]," Scanlon said. "He does a yeomans job. He goes above and beyond what standard assistants do. He is a very integral part of our program. He does a great job. He knows the game well, he deals with the kids very well, he knows what his expected of the kids and he develops the kids very nicely for the varsity program. He is a key resurgence to our program. When we first took over, we didn't have a junior varsity team, we were begging kids to play for us. Now he has had two viable winning seasons. He's a big shot in the arm for the program and especially in the school system. He works tirelessly, doing anything for any kid."

Another current soccer and hockey player, Mark DiGiovanni, agrees with Scanlon's last statement.

"It's very hard to describe him. He's very unique. He's a great guy, very friendly and very easy going. Besides a friend of the family's, he is a person who takes the time to listen, he explains things well, he has a great personality and he is strict when he needs to be. You can relate to him - he knows what he is talking about. I couldn't think or say anything bad about him. I've done a few D.A.R.E. things with him and you can tell how much the kids love him. They really listen to him and they all get along with him. He is one of a kind, he's very funny and he cares a lot about everyone."

Vallas, on the other hand, truly respects the way he works. "He's a great coach, he can laugh and joke with you and then he can be really strict. He works very hard and he works us very hard. When things are going well he still stays on you but not as much if things aren't going so well - he's tougher, but that's good. It helps motivate us."

After graduating from Austin Prep, Bruce got accepted to many of the top schools around the country. He wanted to be a Forest Ranger, a change from his original plan of a vet. He wanted to do that for his passion for the outdoor life, however several restrictions limited him, therefore he went undeclared at U-Lowell. He then thought about being an engineer of some sort and he did that for a semester before dropping out because of lack of interest. Then for the next decade, he had countless number of jobs ranging from a gas attendant, to a truck driver, to a car salesman, to a finance manager. He decided that he had enough of the various jobs so he took the Civil Service Test to be a fireman, liking the idea of working four days and then not working the next four. He took the test twice as both times he scored a 98 which was not good enough as two others had a perfect score of 100. Then he took the test for the third time, this time wanting to become a police officer and there he scored a 94 which was good enough as a full-time employee. For the first four years on the force, he'd usually worked the midnight to 8 a.m. shift, which to him, wasn't interesting.

"Jimmy White had the D.A.R.E. [Officer's] job and he was giving it up," Bruce recalled. "I applied figuring that I really liked dealing with kids from being a coach. I always wanted to teach and I wasn't thrilled with the shift. But then I almost didn't apply. It was hockey season and I didn't want to miss anything. If I got the job, that meant I needed to go to school [in Framingham, Mass.] for two weeks. But [Wilmington Police Officer] Buddy Hubby was telling me that I was crazy if I didn't do it, he really pushed me, other people did too but he really was behind it. So I got it, and I still had to go to school for two weeks. You were suppose to stay over, but I couldn't because of hockey. So I commuted everyday, going to practices and games. You were suppose to being doing a lot of projects in the training, a lot of things with people. I couldn't do that and it was hard because they gave you a lot of homework. I remember being at home trying to prepare speeches that I had to do in front of my dog. I had to time myself and make sure everything was right and my dog was there to listen," he laughed.

From talking totalling kids of out of problems, Bruce has come along way. That and his coaching duties go hand-and-hand, everything and anything to teach a kid about life, happiness, school and athletics. Would he ever consider a head coaches position?

"Yeah I would like to become [a head coach] someday," he answered. "But ideally I work better as an assistant. Honestly, I love coaching the jv level. You don't have to be as disciplined and it's so much more relaxing. I've had a blast this year with the jv soccer and hockey teams. The kids were absolutely great. There is no pressure at the jv level. My role is to teach the kids the game, make sure everyone plays, have fun and prepare them for the next level. And I love being the assistant at the varsity level - the competitiveness and the intensity is great. There is more emphasis on winning, but it's not win at all cost. I think the higher you go [in coaching] the more emphasis there should be on winning."

How about taking a head coach's job if one opened up here in Wilmington or Tewksbury or wherever?

"I wouldn't take a head coaches job out of town, I'd rather stay as an assistant. If for whatever reason a job opened up here and people from only people from outside applied for it, sure I would too. I know I could do it, but the transition would be tough, going from assistant to head coach doesn't always work," he continued.

One other head coach besides Steve Scanlon can't thank Bruce enough.

"When I first came here, not knowing anyone, he was so helpful and great to me," said wrestling coach Mike Pimental. "A lot of the wrestling success is due to him and I could never thank him enough for everything he has done for me, my program and the kids. I think everyone in town owes him something because he has helped out so many people."

Chip Bruce won the George Spanos award for his contributions in the community through athletics back in '91. Ideally he could and should win it every year. That has nothing to do with him obviously being an instant success to a program. It's what he does off the field that makes him so special:

giving a kid a few bucks when he or she needs it; giving a kid a ride home everyday; answering phone calls from kids in the middle of the night and then going over their house; and most of all giving the kid the extra words of wisdom and extra encouragement that is so desperately needed today with the crazy things that are going on in society today.

Wilmington youth hockey

Bantam B's do very well in district 10 state tournament

This past weekend the Wilmington Bantam B youth hockey squad went to The Tony Kent Arena in Dennis to represent District 10 in the annual Massachusetts State Tournament. They qualified for the tournament last November by winning two out of three games in the District Tournament, losing only to Medford who also went to the State Tourney as the number one seed with Wilmington as the number two seed out of the district.

Wilmington vs Yarmouth/Dennis
The Wildcats opened up against the host team of Yarmouth/Dennis and the Wilmington squad must have been a cranked up from the long ride down to the Cape as they showed no mercy in a 13-0 rout of the host team. Joe O'Connell opened the scoring with a beautiful individual move in the first period to give the Wildcats a 1-0 lead.

Two minutes later, O'Connell was breaking in on the Yarmouth/Dennis goaltender when one of their defensemen threw a stick and Joe was awarded a penalty shot. Joe put a slick move that left the goaltender shaking his head and the Wildcats up 2-0. From there it was all down hill for the host team as the Wilmington forwards pummeled the Yarmouth/Dennis goaltender with 31 shots on net. Jack Webb and Geoffrey Ferriera led all scorers as they tallied hat tricks for the Wildcats.

Brian Corcoran, now the most feared point man in the state, scored two goals with a couple of booming slapshots. Matt Collins, Dave Hanley, Pat Cushing and Richie Pallizzolo rounded out the rest of the scoring for the Wildcats. (one win; no losses).

Wilmington vs Holy Name Northstars

Saturday the Wildcats had to take on the Holy Name Northstars from Western, Ma. They were the District Six champions. This was a hard hitting, tight checking game in which neither team had very many scoring chances. Late in the first period with the teams knotted at 0-0, Wildcat netminder Chris Rose was called upon to make a big stop. One of the District 6 wingers broke in along on a breakaway off the right wing side on Chris and he came up with a big stop to keep the game scoreless.

In the last minute of the first period, Matt Collins set a streaking Casey Duggan in on a breakaway and the Holy Name goaltender made a great stop just getting a piece of the puck and deflecting it up over the net keeping the game tied at 0-0. The momentum was definitely going toward the Wildcat side because it took them just 37 seconds into the second period to break the ice. Jack Webb beat a defender down the right wing side and slid a perfect pass to Patrick Cushing in the slot who put it away for a 1-0 lead.

The solid Wildcat defense of Brian Corcoran, Brent Holloway, Brian Martiniello and Brian Aldrich made sure that was all the scoring needed to ice this game with some great defensive zone coverage and holding their opponent to only seven shots on net the rest of the way.

Brent Holloway had the hit of the tournament when he caught one of the Holy Name forwards with his head down coming over the Wildcat blueline. That player is still looking for the bus that hit him. Holding a slim 1-0 lead with just over four minutes left in the second period, the Wildcats got a much needed insurance goal from one of their hardest working forwards, Richie Pallizzolo who banged in a rebound off a Joe O'Connell shot. Pallizzolo kept moving around the front of the net, getting himself in position for a rebound and after Geoff Ferriera passed it to Joe O'Connell and he shot, Pallizzolo deposited the rebound neatly in the corner of the net. The Wildcats peppered the Holy Name goaltender with 17 shots in the second period along coming away with just a 2-0 lead.

In the third period, the Wildcats continued to handcuff the Holy Name offense by controlling the neutral zone and playing very physical in the defensive zone. With the game going back and forth and both goaltenders making some great saves, Dave Hanley took a perfect pass in front of the net from Casey Duggan out of the corner and buried it to put the game out of reach. Dave Hanley ended the scoring after taking a pass from Brian Corcoran and he blasted a wicked slapshot from the blueline into the top corner of the net with three seconds left in the game to round out the scoring. (two wins; no losses).

Wilmington vs Woburn

The whole weekend came down to the Saturday night showdown of the two undefeated Eastern Division teams, Wilmington vs Woburn. The Woburn team came out flying, pinning the Wildcats in their zone for long stretches at a time. The opportunistic Wildcats drew first blood when after some tenacious forechecking from the line of Ferreira, Duggan and Collins, Matt Collins made a nifty move as he came out from behind the net and stuffed it on the short side. On this play Collins would not be denied.

With just over four and a half minutes left in the first period a Woburn forward broke in alone and scored on a breakaway on Chris Rose. The Woburn team peppered Wildcat goaltender Chris Rose with 11 shots in the first period of play. The first period ended in a 1-1 tie, but clearly the difference in the period was the spectacular goaltending of Chris Rose, but this game was a long way from over.

In the second period, Woburn picked up where it left off, hemming the Wildcats deep in their own zone for long stretches but not getting the clean shots that they would have liked. The Wildcat defense disciplined in their own end somehow matching up with their much bigger opponents. If one of the Wildcats missed an assignment another teammate came in to support them. This disciplined defensive zone play and never give up attitude frustrated the Woburn team the entire game.

The Wildcats hard work paid off when the Woburn forwards got caught in deep and the Wildcats broke into the Woburn end of the ice for a shot on goal that caused the Woburn goaltender to make his third save of the period and force a face-off in the Woburn end of the ice. After Geoff Ferreira won the draw, the puck went back to Brian Corcoran at the left point and he fired a slapshot that Ferreira tipped in to put the Wildcats on top 2-1, with 10 seconds left in the second period.

The third period started the same way as the first two with Woburn dominating the possession in the offensive zone but the Wildcats would not go away from their game plan of strict positional play. Woburn tried everything to get the Wildcats out of their game, but to no avail. Every time Woburn thought they had an opening in the Wildcat end of the ice, one of the other players on the Wildcat side shut them down. When they did get the opportunity to shoot, Chris Rose came up with the big save and the Wildcat defense of Brian Martiniello, Brian Aldrich, Brent Holloway and Brian Corcoran made sure that no Woburn player got the rebound.

The Wilmington team had battled its way to within one minute of going to the State semifinal game with hard work and the desire to win. The Wildcats were being outshot 8-3. Woburn took its time out with the facemask in the Wilmington end of the ice. They pulled their goalie and scored on rebound in front of the net. This Wilmington team never stopped working right down to the last whistle they gave it everything they had and came out with a much deserved 2-2 tie.

To watch these players perform is the true definition of teamwork. There is no one star on this team - they are all stars. This group of players is the epitome of a team. As

Squirt A's should be proud of it's performance lately

The excellent play this year of Wilmington's Squirt A Hockey youth hockey team, sponsored by Peterson and Peterson, earned them a trip to "the States." Last weekend the team visited Dedham, to participate in the Squirt Tier II State Championship Tournament. The Wildcats joined 15 other Massachusetts Squirt hockey teams for some stiff competition to determine who deserves the title "Best in the State." The Wilmington squad played well, holding its opponents scoreless to win two games before the Wildcats lost a tight 3-2 game to a strong team from Triboro.

Wilmington battled through two scoreless periods before besting their opponent Woburn 1-0. Matt David was strong in net for the Wildcats, turning aside all shots from the Woburn skaters. Matt had lots of defensive support from Robbie Peterson, Kevin Velardo, Eric Raposa and Michael McMahon. Notching the game winning goal was Mark Giordano who knocked in the rebound of a terrific shot from the point by Eric Raposa.

Wilmington vs Triboro

Game two of the tourney pitted the Cats against Triboro who started a coach, one can only ask the player to do their best when they are playing.

This isn't the end for these players. It's the beginning. Both teams had records of 2-0-1. The first tie breaker was head to head which they had tied and the second tie breaker was goals for: Wilmington (19); Woburn (27). Woburn won the second tie breaker.

The Bantam B's are currently in first place in the Valley League with just two losses in the regular season and in third place, two wins out of first place in the Dual State.

out hot scoring the opening goal after only five minutes of play. The Wildcat defense, led by Robbie Peterson and Michael McMahon, kept the opposing forwards in check for the balance of the period.

Wilmington evened things up when Eric Ollila slammed in the rebound of a blast from Edzo Tucker at the nine minute mark of the second period. Triboro, however, came back strong, scoring twice in the next minute to take the wind out of Wilmington's sails.

Once the third period started Wilmington cranked it up again with some fast skating from Timmy Aldrich, Zack Wilkins and Kyle Browne. With six minutes to play, after Bobby Sinopoli fired in a shot from 20 feet out, it looked as though the Cats were right back in the game. However, Triboro hung tough and kept Wilmington at bay for the rest of the game, even after the Cats pulled their goalie for an extra skater in the last few minutes of play.

Wilmington vs Natick

The final game resulted in a 2-0 win for Wilmington over the Natick team. Matt David performed well "between the pipes" earning his second shutout in three games. After Wilmington's Eric Ollila took a pass from Edzo Tucker and scored after only three minutes of play, it looked as though the Wildcats were going to let loose the flood of goals they would need to advance in the tourney. However, despite many great scoring efforts from Timmy Aldrich, Eric Ollila, Mark Giordano and the rest of the Cats, the puck just wasn't bouncing their way. The only other goal in the game came two minutes into the third period when Scott Dunnett fired a long shot into the far corner of the Natick net. All of the Wilmington forwards skated hard in this game, including Bobby Sinopoli, Kyle Browne and Jackie Rideout who flew up and down their lanes.

Despite the win, Wilmington now needed Woburn to win its game with Triboro in order for the Wildcats to advance to the semifinals. Unfortunately, Triboro and Woburn skated to a tie, meaning that Triboro was the winner for this bracket of the tournament.

The team should be proud of its performance in the tournament, but now it's back to regular season action when it faces Danvers Saturday at 7:55 am at Hockeytown.

Squirt C-2's overcome Reading, 5-2 behind Robby Riccio

The Wilmington Squirt C-2 youth hockey team sponsored by the Wilmington Arena Authority, played hard against Reading IV on Monday, March 9 and won 5-2.

Wilmington took the lead right from the beginning of the game by scoring four goals in the first period while Reading scored only one. Robby Riccio scored the first goal with assist from Matthew Pijoan and Mark Bernardo. The second goal was scored by Kyle Abell with assist from Andy Fish when they put constant pressure on the Reading Goalie. The third goal was scored by Andy Fish when he shot in the rebound for Kyle Abell.

The fourth goal was scored by Bryan Raposo, when he lifted the puck up into the net. He was assisted by both Kyle Abell and Andy Fish. Wilmington was unable to score any goals in the second period, but there were lots of attempts, including shots by Jim Murray.

The Reading goalie did an excellent job this period, stopping many shots by Wilmington. Reading scored a quick goal at the end of the second period making the score 4-2. There was lots of action in the third period by both teams. Reading tried hard to score, but Wilmington's defense and goalie, did an outstanding job shutting them out. Wilmington also tried hard to score another goal, by skating fast, passing the puck, and putting pressure on Reading's goalie. A goal for Wilmington came when Robby Riccio scored unassisted, giving his team a three goal lead.

The defensemen, Mark Bernardo, Michael Costa, Michael Hayes and Bobby Ryan, all played great, especially in the third period when Reading was unable to score a single goal. Wilmington's star goalie, Jimmy Good, played another excellent game.

Wilmington vs Andover IX
The Wilmington Squirt C-2 hockey team played Andover IX on February 28 and won big by working together as a team. The final score of the game was 10-2. Wilmington came out fighting and was able to score four goals in the first period. Robby Riccio put Wilmington on the board by scoring the first goal.

The second goal was scored one minute later with an unassisted goal for Mark Bernardo. Jim Murray scored the third goal with a nice shot. He was assisted by both Phillip Mugford and Mark Bernardo.

The fourth goal was scored with only 39 seconds left in the period when Riccio won the face-off and maneuvered around the Andover players. Wilmington dominated the second period by scoring five more goals and allowing Andover to score once. Mark Bernardo scored the fifth goal with a great pass from Jim Murray.

The sixth goal was scored by Kyle Abell, who skated quickly and outwitted the Andover goalie. Riccio scored the seventh goal, his third of the game, giving him his third hat trick of the year. Kyle Abell scored the eighth goal with help from Andy Fish. The ninth goal was scored when Bobby Ryan displayed good stick handling and passed to Bryan Raposo, who then scored.

The third period was fun for Wilmington because they knew they were going to win. Everyone changed positions, skated around and watched as the clock counted down. The last goal was scored by Mark Bernardo, his third of the game, giving him a hat trick. Michael Costa, Michael Hayes, and Bobby Ryan all played awesome defensively keeping the puck out of the Wilmington zone and passing up. The goalie, Jimmy Good, continues to do an outstanding job in net.

Mite C's lose to Stoneham, 4-1 in playdowns

The Wilmington Mite C youth hockey team's foray into the District 10 Playdowns came to an abrupt halt Saturday, March 14 as they lost to an undermanned Stoneham team by the score of 4-1 in the opening game. The C's entered the tournament with high expectations. Stoneham, however, would have none of it. Playing with only nine skaters, Stoneham combined excellent goaltending with timely and lucky goal scoring to take the victory.

The C's exhibited a lot of hard work and determination throughout as forwards Michale DeRosa and Max Wilkins were tenacious in their efforts. Several Wilmington forwards broke free on breakaways during the game but were foiled by the Stoneham goalie, Michael Wilson, Mark Manning, Scott Dacko, and Michael Geautreau all had great scoring chances.

Timmy Cushing connected one of his breakaways in the second period to make the score 2-1, but that was as close as the game got as Stoneham struck twice again to ice the contest. Wilmington goalie Cory Tobin was excellent making many saves to help keep his team in the game.

The C's return to league action this week with a busy three game schedule. As the season winds down the team continues to be in first place in its division. With games to be played against all the teams that are challenging for first place the next month looks to be an exciting conclusion to the season.

WHAT IS THE MARGIN ON AN ARM?

When you are shopping for an Adjustable Rate Mortgage, the important thing to consider is the margin. Each time your loan is adjusted, the new interest rate will be tied to an index of Treasury notes. The margin is the percentage point above that index where your rate will be set.

Let's suppose that you have a one-year ARM with a 2.5 margin. Your initial rate was 7.5%, and during the first year of the loan, the index of 1-year Treasury notes was at 6.25%. The rate for the second year of your loan would be adjusted to 8.75%. With a margin of 2.75, it would increase to 9%. Some lenders offer lower initial rates with higher margins. In this case, the subsequent rates could be higher after the first year than if you chose a higher initial rate with a lower margin. If you are confused by the various mortgage offers, ask a professional mortgage broker to sit down with you and show you how it works. Today the rates and different financial possibilities change so frequently that it is a good idea to talk to a mortgage broker—they usually know where the best rates can be found.

Time!

RUSTY SAYS "IT'S THE WAY YOU WEAR YOUR HAT" that counts. His owner Jear Robertson of 14 Dewey Ave in Woburn submitted the photo for the Third Annual Middlesex East Photo Contest. For details see the story below.

Get Your Photos Ready!

The Third Annual Middlesex East Publications Photo Contest is now underway as we go searching for the most outstanding amateur photographs in our ten town region.

This year we have also added a Junior Division for those under 18 years of age so we can get the younger people interested in taking exciting photographs.

In previous competitions we restricted the category to "pets" but this year we decided to open it up to every subject matter. We are not necessarily looking for what some would call a photographically perfect shot, but rather we are looking for lively, entertaining and unique photos.

They can be of your kids, grandchildren, your family or even a still life of your favorite table setting. You may also enter more than one photo but please place each photo in a separate envelope with a separate description.

There will be four cash prizes awarded including:

- First Place - Best Overall Photo $100.00
- First Place - Best Junior Photo (Under age 18) $100.00
- Second Place Best Overall Photo $75.00
- Third Place - Best Overall Photo $50.00

There are some simple rules to follow. Each photo should be clearly marked on the back with

- Name of photographer
- Address including street and community
- Telephone number
- Names of persons in photo
- Location of photo

Stoneham's Joey Vitiello has... Royal dreams

By: Jim Goldsmith

Stoneham's Joey Vitiello is once again at Spring Training with the Kansas City Royals looking to make "the big team" and head back to Kansas City with the club for the regular season.

Thus far there are positive and disturbing signs. On the positive side is one home run and one double to go along with four singles in 25 at bats. One the troublesome side is nagging injuries including his left-quad leg muscle, his right groin and a ham string that according to his brother-in-law Frank Rivera from Stoneham has caused him problems.

In his battle to make the Royals, Joey has been seeing action at first base, the outfield and as a designated hitter.

Before leaving for spring training I had a chance to talk with Joey and some of his former coaches and what follows is what they all had to say.

When a 6'1", 200 pound freshman tried out for the Spartan baseball team in 1985, Coach William Seabury was impressed with the young man's ability. Today Coach Seabury says "He immediately gave us a real pitcher who could throw hard. He was the start of Stoneham High School's good (baseball) fortunes."

Who's this freshman phenom, the young man who was a Middlesex League Player Of The Year as a sophomore, junior and senior at SHS? None other than Joseph (Joey) Vitiello who went on to become an All-American at the University of Alabama.

This writer met Mr. Vitiello at Denny's in Stoneham where we talked about the past, present and future - his philosophy of life, and what he expects of himself as a professional athlete and man.

The 6'4", 230 pound baseball player, who recently bought a condo in Reading says, "I'm the kind of person who takes each day as it comes.

"I had a chance to sign with the New York Yankees (as a high school senior), but I chose to go into the minor leagues (Kansas City Royals) at 18 to grow up and become a man. If I were asked by a kid I'd advise him to go to school (before signing a professional sports contract)."

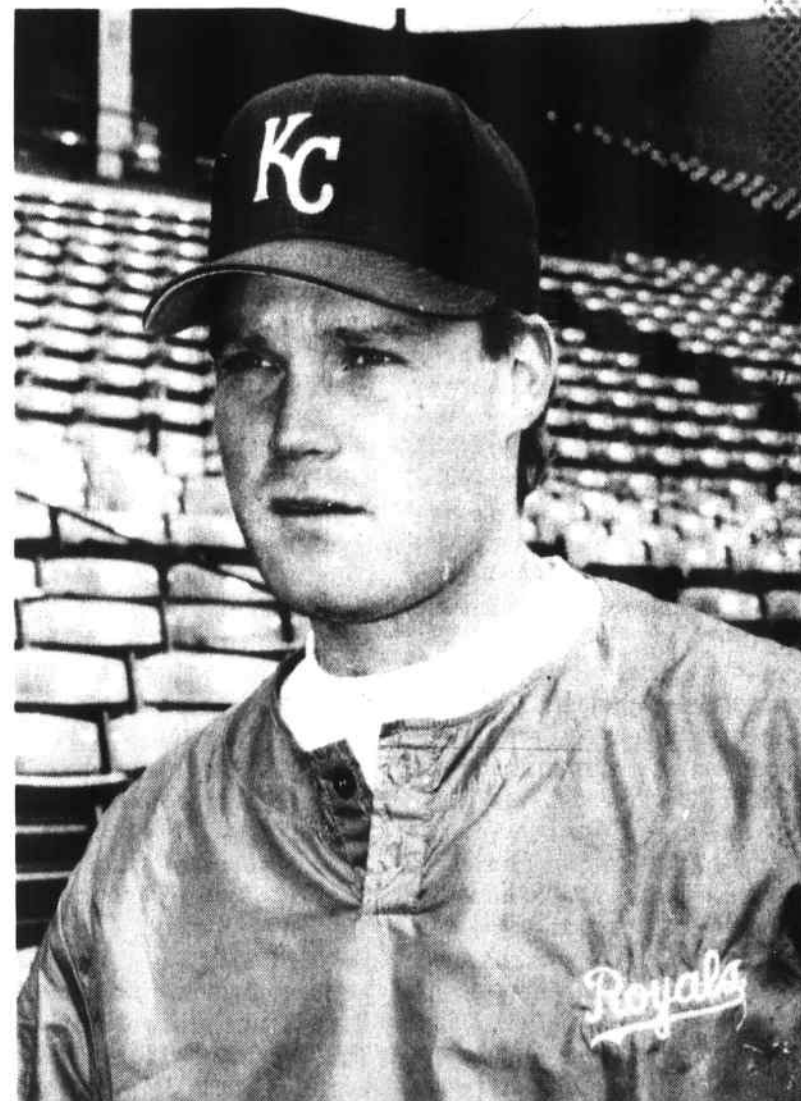

When you discuss Joseph Vitiello's athletic accomplishments at SHS it's hard to narrow the field down to one, but the Spartans' 7-6 win over a very talented North Andover High School baseball team in late May, 1987 was like this young man-something special. Perhaps reporter Steve DeMarco, who was at Mark Devlin Field. Lawrence, describes it best. DeMarco wrote in the Stoneham Independent; "The numbers were staggering and they simply reflected how great players rise to the occasion in great games. The great player was Joe Vitiello, and last evening, as the clock approached the Midnight Hour, the fans were treated to one of the great relief pitching performances in Massachusetts schoolboy tournament history."

If Curt Gowdy were still announcing baseball games, and he watched this four hour, 14 minute, 13 inning marathon he might say "Here's that g-o-o-d hitting pitcher, Joe Vitiello." Gowdy's long gone but Coach Seabury isn't.

The SHS varsity baseball coach, who will start his 23rd year as SHS baseball coach this spring, remembers his young and talented pitcher throwing 17 K's (strikeouts) at North Andover in a classic pitching duel with North Andover's ace Todd Rembis.

Coach Seabury adds, "We beat Swampscott that year too, (in a Division 2 North Championship game), and he hit two home runs. He was just a real great ballplayer." Stoneham edged Swampscott 3-2, and the box score gives Joey Vitiello's stats: three hits in four at bats, and one rbi, two runs scored.

JOEY VITIELLO'S MANY Stoneham friends wish the Kansas City Royals' designated hitter/outfielder all the best. Vitiello reported to the Royals' spring training camp, Hanes City, FL in February.

When Kansas City came calling he was chosen as that team's seventh pick in the 1991 draft. Has all the fame and hoopla changed his life and attitude? The man wearing a New England Patriots cap, tee shirt and jeans has an intense look-like he is trying to pick up a sign from a third base coach. He explains, "That stuff really doesn't mean that much to me. It's what your peers, teachers and friends think of you that is really important. What kind of person you are is really important." Well, what kind of person is Joey Vitiello? At Stoneham

High School this versatile Spartan excelled in baseball, basketball and football; in college he first had to learn to deal with southern life. The affable man explains, "It definitely was a culture shock going down there in the deep south. I talked funny compared to everybody else. Those were the best years of my life. I met a lot of really nice people and made a lot of good friends."

ANTHONY MANCONI

I was told that the Vatican Library has two special books. One has over 200 pages and it contains everything that Eve said to Adam. The other book has only ten pages. It contains what Adam said to Eve.

The 1998 cars are in the show-rooms and, some are already on the road. Two seagulls flying over Revere Beach looked down at the traffic and one asked, "Hey Ecliff, have you spotted any NEW CARS lately?"

The way Kathy parks her car presents a problem. She's not sure which METER she should use.

My niece Maureen is the picture of her father and the sound track of her mother.

Kathy went to Stearn's Hardware and told Harvey, "Chipper wants a half inch pipe plug." "Does he want a Male plug, Female plug or one of each?" "How the heck do I know," Kathy exclaimed, "that idiot wants to try to stop a water leak, I don't think he intends to RAISE them!"

Pharmacists Jimmy Fanikos, Stephen Rappa and, Big Red Jovrie have discovered a new formula. It's a mixture of one Pint of Castor Oil in ten gallons of gasoline. It makes an old clunker of a car go-o-o faster.

Officer John Daigle answered a call of a woman who complained that she could see a neighbor walking around his apartment naked. Officer Daigle says, "Ma'am, that building is so far away, how in the world could you see anyone from that distance?" "Is that so young man, well, you just jump up on this kitchen chair and look through these BINOCULARS!"

I was talking to my cousin Angelo Quaganti when there was an explosion next door and a husband and wife went sailing up through the roof. "Wow! Angelo exclaimed, "I've known them for over twenty years and this is the first time I've seen both of them go OUT TOGETHER!"

My uncle John went to confession. He told Father Tony that he worked in a lumber yard and now and then he'd take a piece of lumber home. "Well," Father Tony said, the gravity of our sin depends of how much lumber you took. "Well," Uncle John said, "I fixed my steps, I built a yard shed and I repaired Aunt Nora's fence." "For your penance you will have to make a NOVENA." "O'Kay Father, if you have the PLAN'S I think I have enough lumber!"

McCusker of STONEHAM.

The parents of five year old John and three year old Brian apologized to the baby-sitter for coming home late. An exhausted baby-sitter replied, "there's no need for an apology, if these were my kids, I wouldn't be in any hurry to come home either!"

George Hill said, "I don't know why we pay men more to pour concrete than we pay teachers to MOLD MINDS."

Mikhail Gorbachev (former Communist Leader), is the only Russian I know who is HEAVIER than his wife.

Notice on church lawn, Bulletin Board, 'Chicken Supper to-night. Come in for a Wing and a Prayer' Medication later."

Why is it in my bank five teller's positions two or them are named. Other Window?"

Kathy tells everyone that our marriage was for better or worse. I could NOT have done any better and She, couldn't have one any Worse!

I asked Diane Hiden if she believed in, "Reincarnation?" "Of course NOT," she said, why my husband Wayne doesn't even believe in LIFE after Dinner!"

I asked by friend George Gould, (former Mailman), "why is it George that my father-in-law and mother-in-law love me more than Kathy does?" "I know why Chipper," George said, "Look who YOU took off their hands!"

The easiest way I know to make your old clunker of a car with all its "Shimmies" "Squeaks," and "Knocks" sound better is to go and price a new CAR.

Chet Raymo of, "Science Musings" said, "A good rule of thumb is this, If your COMPUTER is OUT of the BOX it's already 'OBSOLETE!'"

An old saying, "Time, Tide and Cement wait for no one." If

About The Towns by Phyllis Nissen

Great start in Woburn

"Woburn continues to be a safer place to live, based on crime statistics for 1997 released by the Woburn Police Department," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The total number of crimes reported to police last year represented a 14 percent decrease from 1996. Significant drops in larcenies, burglaries and assaults were reported.

"Modest increases from last year in terms of numbers were reported in robberies, stolen cars and rape.

"For the second straight year, there were no murders in Woburn.

"Even more encouraging is the five-year trend, which shows a 44 percent drop in overall crime since 1993.

"If you look at that five-year period, the figures are outstanding," said Police Chief Philip Mahoney. "I've always said that crime is a community problem, not just a police problem and we're very proud of the team effort within the community."

"The chief cited several factors responsible for the decrease in crime, including the economy, housing trends and employment figures.

"If you're looking at December 1997, the unemployment rate in Woburn is 3.0 percent," said Mahoney. "Home ownership is up, and with the rentals we're doing a lot of work with landlords to hold the people in the community accountable."

"A total of 1,110 crimes was reported to police last year, down from 1,290 in 1996, though police received 24,426 calls in 1997, an increase of about 450 from the previous year."

Green light in Stoneham

"Ending a long permitting process, unanimous approval was granted by the Board of Selectmen...to convert the Sunshine Nursing Home, at 12 Benton Street, to an eight-unit condominium complex," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"The board's site plan decision followed approval of variances from the Zoning Board of Appeals as well as granting of a special permit from the Planning Board.

"The nursing home, which has operated on the site for many years, will be sold by its long-time owner, George Price, and transformed to a use what Attorney Steven Cicalati described as 'consistent with the allowed use,' in the Residential B-zone that the building falls under.

"The plan includes the razing of the adjacent residential structure on Benton Street, also owned by Price, as well as the nursing home's garage and a shed to the rear of the property, in order to allow for ample parking."

Joey Vitiello

From S-1

Charles (Chuck) Runge who was Joe Vitiello's hitting coach when the Stoneham man played American Legion baseball says, "He has all the tools. He has tremendous power as a hitter. He's just a tremendous athlete." Chuck Runge later was coach of the American Legion team, and still keeps in touch with his friend, and hopes his right knee gives Joey the support Stoneham residents have.

What was it like to go from playing triple A ball in Omaha, NB in 1994 to getting a telephone call telling him to report to Hanes City, FL for spring training in 1995?

The man with the bulging biceps takes a sip of coffee and says, "It was like a dream come true. You never really think it's going to come true."

Joey, what about your fondest memory as a Royal? The young man with an ever ready smile says, "The first day I stepped on a plane in Boston, headed for Eugene, Oregon, and the Kansas City Royals' minor league A team, I went from A to double A then triple A at Omaha, NB in 1994. In 1995 (spring training) I was called up to join the team at Hanes City, FL. It was like a dream come true. You never really think, it's going to come true."

What was this young man's greatest thrill and most lasting memory? It didn't take this family oriented man long to reply, "Standing out there (in Kauffman Stadium in 1996) for the National Anthem, I looked up from the first base line and saw my whole family sitting behind home plate on the first base side."

Meanwhile, this writer called Joey's dad to ask his recollection of that fateful game against the Baltimore Orioles. Dad said, "We scurried around to get some days off from work and plane tickets to Kansas City. Our immediate family, (Joey's two sisters Desiree and Sheree, his step-mother Janet, dad, and his sister's husbands) flew out. I know in my heart that at that point he had made it. I've seen countless games that he's been involved in, championships and tournaments, and it was a sense of relief that he finally made it. It's a thing that very few people will ever experience. Joey didn't play in that game, but his name was announced."

Joey says, "I played in about 53 games in 1995 as a designated hitter/first baseman and in 1996, 80-90 games. Last year I played about 50 games before having surgery on my right knee in June and again in August. I tore cartilage in my right knee when I fell in the outfield."

Who has been the most influential person in Joe Vitiello's life? The young man says, "My father has been a big part of what I have accomplished. I owe a lot of credit to Johnny Doherty. After all these years we still work together on hitting at Somerville warehouse." Perhaps this youngman's philosophy of life sets him apart from thousands of Boys of Summer who light up the hometown scoreboard, but strike out in the majors.

He has some sage advice for all high school students whatever career path they follow; "Whatever you do in life give it 110% - your whole attention. It's something my father instilled in me early in life."

How does the well conditioned Stoneham resident deal with the pressure to succeed in the majors? The man wearing New England Patriot's cap, tee shirt and jeans says "Professional baseball is a job. There's a lot of pressure, but it's a game, I go out and have fun. I try to work as hard as I can-give it my best to make the team win. "As a designated hitter I'm a line drive hitter with some power. John Doherty says Joey is being modest. He explains, "If Joey is healthy, and can get 500 at bats he has a chance to be a very, very good big league hitter. He definitely can hit 25-30 home runs on 500 at bats."

"It's every teachers' dream whether in academics or sports to have a student who listens and learns. He has great talent. He is receptive to everything that has been brought to his attention. Injuries have held him back-that in the end will decide his future."

He says, "I talk to the team trainer at least once a month. Every time you step out on the field it could be your last time. In my mind I hope to play for another 10 years. You know in the back of your mind it could end. (If that happens) I'd definitely like to coach. I took physical education at the University of Alabama."

While one wouldn't describe Mr. Vitiello as laid back he definitely isn't a bundle of nerves; rather, he's a young man with a great deal of talent and maturity who know what he wants, and has the determination to make his dream come true. How would he describe himself? He seems perplexed by the question, but after turning it over like a good change up he replies, "I'm the kind of person who takes each day as it comes."

"Coach" Vitiello slides over on the dugout bench to have a word with his son's fans. Speaking as a proud parent he says, "when Joey was about eight he got involved in sports, and I gave him some advice, Stay a good kid, keep your head on your shoulders, and remember where you came from. I'm very pleased at that. He's always had time for other kids."

Whatever the future holds in store for Joseph Vitiello his many friends from Alabama to Stoneham will be watching and waiting.

SPORTS SHORTS

• MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA QUESTION: Although it hadn't happened since the 1920's, two horses with three words in their names won the Kentucky Derby during the 1980's. Can you name just one of them? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

• WOBURN'S RYAN SOUTHARD, a sophomore, has had a breakthrough season as a member of the Trinity College men's ice hockey team, scoring 10 goals and 19 assists for 29 points.

• WOBURN'S JENN EATON finished the 1997-98 season as a member of the Nichols College women's basketball team averaging 6.6 points a game, 4.9 rebounds and 3 assists while recording 42 steals. She will be one of two seniors returning next year to lead the squad.

• Need a clue or two to help solve the trivia mystery? The last word in the name of one of the horses rhymes with truck.

• The Pingree School Athletic Department recently recognized the achievements of the winter athletic teams at an awards ceremony. Three local athletes were recognized: WOBURN'S SEAN MORGAN, a senior, received the Sportsmanship Award for boys' hockey; LYNNFIELD SENIOR JACQUILA PIERRE was named Most Valuable Defensive Player and was an EIL second team all-star for girls' hockey; and LYNNFIELD JUNIOR ALICIA VITAGLIANO received the Sportsmanship Award in girls' basketball.

• READING'S JEFF BOUCHER had an assist in the final game of the year for the Nichols College men's ice hockey team. He finished the year with two goals and four assists.

• WILMINGTON'S KRISTEN THOMAS, a 16-year-old defenseman for the Chelmsford Lions Independent girls hockey team, is preparing to lead her team to the national tournament in Anaheim, California on April 1.

Last summer she was chosen to try out at Lake Placid. Her high school team (she plays for Cushing Academy) is also enjoying success this year, sporting a 17-1-1 record while being rated the top women's team in New England by the esteemed Hockey Night in Boston publication.

In order for Thomas' team to make the trip to Anaheim, it must raise $20,000. The team is seeking donations (any amount will do), and anyone wishing to help the team out is urged to call 978-658-0138.

• Two local wrestlers posted wins in the last regular season dual match for the UMass-Lowell wrestling team. NORTH READING'S CHRIS CONROY, a senior, recorded victories over Plymouth State and Boston College at the 134 pound level, while WILMINGTON JUNIOR BRIAN TILDSLEY won at 150 pounds over Boston College.

• BACKUP GOALIES are needed to play for free for an older group league at the Burbank Arena. Players of any age, sex and skill level are welcome. Call 781-944-9464 for more information.

• ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: The two horses are Gato del Sol, which won the Kentucky Derby in 1982, and the other is Spend A Buck, which won in 1985. Congratulations to those who answered the question correctly, and look for this space next week to find another sports-related trivia question.

EURAPAIR PROGRAM SEEKS QUALIFIED HOST FAMILIES

Each year thousands of American families in search of child care assistance open their homes and hearts to au pair exchange visitors from around the world. This age old European tradition continues to grow in popularity in the United States.

You may even know families in your own neighborhood who are already hosting an au pair. Local families with children ages 3 months to 12 years interested in hosting an au pair exchange participant from Europe, Japan, South Africa or French-speaking Canada are being sought by the non-profit EurAupair (pronounced your a pair) Intercultural Child Care Program.

By welcoming a young person from another country into your family as an au pair, you are not only choosing to enrich our family by expanding your knowledge of another country and its culture, but because your au pair will be considered part of your family, you will be gaining a trusted older brother or sister to take care of your children.

EurAupair au pairs are young adults between the ages of 18 and 26, who have chosen to take a year off between school terms to live with an American family, and help care for family's children in exchange for the opportunity to learn more about our culture and language in a way that can only happen through a homestay experience.

Au pairs offer families flexible hours of child care assistance, while the children benefit from the individualized attention of their new "big sister" in the secure, familiar surroundings of their own home.

School Notes

by Phyllis Nissen

Entering the real world with class

Music doings in Burlington

"Burlington High students Alyson Covino, Kelly Spratt and Brian McNeil were winners in the All-State Music composition program," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The students received congratulations from Principal Dr. Maynard Suffredini and music teacher Matt Lovell."

C.L.U.B. 'green' in Wakefield

"The C.L.U.B. (Children Learning to Understand Banking) at The Savings Bank has expanded its availability in an effort to encourage saving at an early age," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Through a collaboration with the Wakefield School system, a 'chapter' of the C.L.U.B. has been created at several elementary schools which will enable students to develop a savings habit while learning about banking through classroom instruction and participation in bank-sponsored programs. During a recent introductory C.L.U.B. meeting with Jennifer Haskell, C.L.U.B. Coordinator for The Savings Bank, third and fourth graders at the Doyle School attended a presentation of the program and received an enrollment packet of materials to share with their families. Teachers Barbara Richards and Mary Sullivan have designated Tuesday as banking day at the Doyle School. Representatives from The Savings Bank will visit the school on a regular basis to assist the children and teachers."

Mentoring in Wilmington

"Wilmington High School will be implementing a new mentoring program beginning with the new 1998-1999 school year," notes the Wilmington "Town Crier."

"This program will be geared toward highly motivated students who have an interest in linking what they learn in school with what they can learn in the work place."

"Mr. Nee, the coordinator of student services at WHS, is very enthusiastic about this new venture and hopes to recruit many people within the community who are willing to volunteer their time and efforts toward this worthwhile endeavor."

"The basic concept of 'school to career' mentoring works with the idea that students can learn about the kinds of jobs that interest them through a 'hands-on' approach. As Mr. Nee puts it, 'this will give kids an opportunity to investigate their career interests and pursue their educational goals to their fullest.' Students can take the practical theory that they learn in a classroom setting and then apply it to the work place. This, in turn, will give them a better focus on studies and a new perspective on how the process of education is connected to their life."

"Mentors can work with the students in a variety of ways to enhance the learning experience. Job shadowing, visits to the workplace, and giving instruction about the nature of the job or the structure of the company are just a few of the ways in which professionals can create a student-mentor relationship. Mr. Nee is certain that this kind of investment in the lives of the students at WHS will result in young adults who are well informed and prepared to meet the challenges that they must face when they are ready to enter the job market."

"Anyone interested in obtaining more information or volunteering for this student mentoring project may call Mr. Nee at 978-694-6060."

All that's fit in Reading

Victorian Society garden program

The Victorian Melrose Society in conjunction with the Malden Victorian Society will sponsor a program "Your Garden-Then and Now" on Tuesday, March 24, at 7:30pm in the Malden Community Center, corner of Grove and Washington Streets.

There will be two brief presentations by noted experts covering everything from soils to landscape design in contemporary as well as older, Victorian settings. The presentations will be followed by an extended question and answer period. Light refreshments will be provided. The program is free to members of either society. A $3 donation is requested of nonmembers.

One presenter will be Barbara Jesse, a local arborist who specializes in tree and shrubs, which are particularly suited for this region of New England, and their incorporation in landscape design. The other presentation will be by Steve Cefalo, who will discuss the creation of annual flower beds. Design issues such as size, color, and shape will be discussed along with suggestions for soil preparation and maintenance.

Nonmembers are encouraged to attend and become familiar with the activities of these societies. Before and after the program there will be opportunities to renew memberships in the Victorian Melrose Society or to join either group. Information and reservations will also be available for the "Indoor Garden Tea" on April 26, which will be held in a specially decorated private Victorian home on the Melrose east side.

For more information telephone 781-665-9672 (please leave a message).

March 22

Faure's Requiem performed

Sunday, March 22 at 10 am, musicians at the First Congregational Church, United Church of Christ, Reading, will perform Faure's Requiem.

Bass-baritone soloist Brian W. Ocock is an award winning vocal director of the Wakefield Repertory Theatre and vocal coach at Masconomet Regional High School. Asked what makes Faure's Requiem special, Mr. Ocock says, "It's very tender and intimate; the solos I have are very intimate and lyrical."

Lauren Kimerer, soprano soloist, sings with the New England Classical Singers and the Balmy Zephyrs, an a cappella group. Mrs. Kimerer and Mr. Ocock will be accompanied by organ and obligato instruments including cello, violin, trumpet and trombone.

The First Congregational Church, UCC, Reading is located at 25 Woburn Street, behind Reading Town Hall.

Day camp on Japanese culture in Lynnfield

If the Nagano Winter Olympics raised your curiosity level about Japan a special two-week day camp is being offered at Lynnfield High School this summer for families and children ages 8-16 to enhance their first-hand knowledge. The camp is available for students in all surrounding towns also.

The program-Japan Camp will take place at Lynnfield High School from August 17 to August 31 and provides a way to learn about many facets of Japanese culture. The two-week camp is held in conjunction and a visit by a group of Japanese students from Ritsumei Kan Uji School, a large private school in Kyoto, Japan.

Conducted with American Learning Expeditions of Cambridge, which has been running similar program for the past ten years, the camp allows host students to learn in workshops on Japanese language, arts and crafts, cooking and martial arts, while their Japanese counterparts study English. In the afternoon, Japanese and host students embark together on field trips and participate in fun activities.

A key component of the learning experience is the hosting of the Japanese students by families in the area. Host families can send their child without any cost to the camp that runs from 9am to 4:30pm, Monday through Friday.

The camp is the "the closest thing to experiencing Japanese culture without actually traveling to Japan," according to Steven Shapiro a Cornell University graduate and frequent visitor to Japan who is president of American Learning Expeditions. The program is based on the principle of total interaction for visiting and host students and all campers qualify for an annual spring trip to Japan at a very reasonable cost.

For interested campers whose families are not able to host a Japanese student, the tuition-including all courses and supervision on field trips-is $350 per student. Hosting involves "welcoming a visiting Japanese student into your home for two weeks, giving them a place to sleep and making them part of your family," Shapiro says. "They will want to learn about American life and practice their English skills. These students also have much to teach about their fascinating country and culture."

The camp has a limited number of spaces available and those interesting in learning more can call American Learning Expeditions at 617-492-1044, visit the web site at www.japancam.com or E-mail Steveale@Tiac.net.

For more details, contact American Learning Expeditions 617-492-1044.

GENERAL HELP

Working is much more than a Paycheck!!

February 1, 1998

To the Management:

This is my official two weeks notice that I am leaving McDonald's of Four Corners. Sunday, February 15, 1998 will be my last day of work. My reason for leaving is simply that I would like to try something else before I go off to college in the fall. Money and working conditions are not issues in my decision. I leave with only positive opinions and memories about my 19 months of employment. I have met some great people and have gained quite a bit in terms of responsibility, customer relations and teamwork. I will always remember my experiences at McDonald's. At first, I went along with the stereotypical view of a job at McDonald's, the details of which we all know. I was quickly proven wrong and will always defend McDonald's as a fine place to work. There is no doubt I will miss my first job and all my co-workers. Thank you, everyone, for all you have given me. I hope there is no bitterness toward me, as I leave with none toward any of you.

Sincerely,
Daniel E. Borgasano

I'm proud to have had Daniel Borgasano work for my McDonald's at 4 Corners as well as all the young men and women before him. We are now hiring:

Organize with a home office

According to IDC/LINK, the industry source for information on a variety of business and residential markets, currently 34.7 million households include a home office, with a growth rate of 15.6% annually since 1995.

"Home offices are becoming more prevalent, growing rapidly each year," says Lisa Kanarek, author of three books including Organizing Your Home Office. For success, founder of the day and host of its official Web site, www.homeofficeday.com.

The key to an office is organization, and Kanarek says, "If you misuse one hour a day, five days a week each year, (with two weeks off for vacation) at the end of the year you will have lost over 31, 8-hour days-a full month! To help you on the road to organization, she recommends:

- Don't bring anything into your work area without asking yourself if you really need it. By limiting your home office area to include only items pertaining to the current work at hand, such as relevant project folders, books, etc. you'll eliminate unnecessary clutter and be able to function more efficiently.
- Keep only work-related items in your office.

Distractions are unavoidable when working at home, but by maintaining a professional environment, you'll help to limit them.

- Forget the rule "handle paper once." Instead, do something to move each piece of paper forward. You may not always be able to get through to that unreachable vendor or solve a client-related issue, but be persistent instead of putting the job off until a later time.
- Follow the rule "do it or dump it." Move a task forward on your list; make a decision and follow through.
- Take full advantage of the latest technology. Makers of office equipment have recognized this major trend of working at home. As a result, they are manufacturing multi-function units that perform more than one office task, and do it in a box that takes up less space to fit in well with the typically small home office environment.

"New digital technology has made a significant impact on size and cost. By taking advantage of these small sized multi-function office machines you can make the most of our office space, without having to make a large financial commitment," says John McNeeney, national marketing manager for Panasonic's Communications and Home Office Electronics Division.

Members of congress to help construct homes

Members of the U.S. House of Representatives will work side-by-side with home builders across the country constructing houses for deserving families during 1998.

The project, "The Houses That Congress Built," is the result of a resolution, passed by the House of Representatives on May 13, 1997, to participate in and support activities which provide decent homes for the people for the U.S.

The National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) and its affiliates across the country will participate in the project, along with Habitat for Humanity and other key housing industry groups. "The Houses That Congress Built" provides builders the opportunity to work with lawmakers to actively demonstrate the importance of homeownership to this country," said Don Martin, president of NAHB.

"The home building industry is committed to providing quality housing for Americans in all income levels. This project is a unique opportunity to bring the benefits of homeownership to the forefront while providing

Your Garden - Your Home

Lawns help the environment

There are many things you can do for the environment beginning in your own yard. Surprised? You may not realize that the natural carpet surrounding your home provides many environmental benefits.

"Many of us take our lawn for granted," says horticulturist Michael Gaffney of the Professional Lawn Care

Association of America (PLCAA). "Healthy grass helps prevent runoff and soil erosion, and it helps clean the air by converting carbon dioxide to oxygen. That's just a few of the grass plant's beneficial traits."

The U.S. Congress noted the benefits of grass and other vegetation in a 1990 Farm Bill: "low growing dense perennial turf-grass sod in urban areas and communities, can aid in reducing carbon dioxide emissions, mitigating the heat island effect, and reducing energy consumption, thus contributing to efforts to reduce global warming trends."

To reap its many benefits a lawn must be well-maintained. "Improper mowing and watering can weaken your lawn's ability to help control pollution and restore the soil," says Gaffney. PLCAA recommends following these basic lawn maintenance tips to enhance our lawn's environmental benefits:

Soil Sampling. Consider having your soil sampled and analyzed. Make sure your soil has the correct pH level and key nutrients for healthy growth.

Grass Selection. Only use new and improved variety mixtures or blends that grow well in your climate, meet your quality expectations and can accommodate your lawn activities, such as heavy use by children at play.

Mowing. Mow at the highest recommended height and mow often, never removing more than one-third of the leaf surface. Keep lawn mower blades sharp and grasscycle. Grasscycling, or leaving clippings on the lawn when you mow, allows nutrient to return to the soil.

Watering. Water deeply but not too often. In general, watering should moisten the soil to a depth of 4 to 6 inches. Too much water can cause water quality and grass problems, increasing the chance of fungus, or runoff and leaching of nutrients. And, it's a waste of our precious water resources.

Fertilization and Pest Control. Apply the right amount and kind of fertilizer and pest control products at the right time, and only when needed. Follow all label instructions and precautions.

Attack pests while they sleep. In temperate zones, fighting insects only in warm months is a futile exercise. If you know the winter habits of your common garden pests, you can wage a more effective pest control campaign. Many insects (like Japanese beetles) overwinter as grubs under sod. Nursery professionals can recommend products to apply in the fall. Spading soil to a depth of one to four inches destroys cutworms and grasshoppers. Inspect fruit and shade trees for cankerworm eggs. The eggs are gray and shaped like flower pots. Iris leaves are a favorite winter resting place for slugs, so remove the leaves after first frost.

Enlist natural allies. Not all creepy crawlers are created equal. Spiders, ladybugs, lacewings, firefly grubs, snakes, toads and turtles will come to your aid by eating destructive garden pests. Feed birds during winter with seed and suet cakes and they'll return the favor by devouring your tree-boring pests and other insects during spring and summer.

To help with your maintenance needs, consider hiring a professional lawn care service. Many homeowners do-over the past four years, demand for lawn care services rose by 12 percent, according to a 1997 Gallup Poll. Make sure the service is a member of a professional association like PLCAA and check the company's service record by calling your local Better Business Bureau.

The ritual of spring cleaning

The ritual of spring cleaning has mellowed since the age of wood and coal burning stoves, but nonetheless, the need for a thoroughly clean house still courses through our veins.

And, with spring in the air, it's time for the majority of the nation's homeowners to gear up for the cleaning battle. THE MAIDS, one of the United States and Canada's largest and oldest maid service, provides the following list of tips for those "neglected-until-spring-cleaning" areas

Floor and Wall Vent Covers: Remove (if possible) and wash vent covers with warm soapy water and dry thoroughly. Use a toothbrush or small brush to get in between the slats.

Walls: wipe painted walls down with a cloth (wearing rubber gloves).

homes to deserving families who would otherwise not be able to afford them."

The first Houses That Congress Built were constructed in Washington, DC last year. With the help of House Speaker Newt Gingrich, HUD Secretary Andrew Cuomo, more than 30 members of Congress and their staffs, NAHB, Habitat for Humanity and other key groups constructed two townhouses.

The organizations that participated in that project are members of the National Partners and Homeownership. The partnership is a public-private effort of nearly 60 national organizations that worked together to help the U.S. reach the unprecedented homeownership rate of 66 percent in the third quarter of 1997.

For more information about the project please call the NAHB at 800-368-5242, extension 473, or Habitat for Humanity International at 202-628-9171.

MOVIE REVIEWS

BY PAUL FEELY

"Man in the Iron Mask" predictable

MOVIE: "THE MAN IN THE IRON MASK"
GRADE: 1/2

Review: Leonardo DiCaprio fans, here's your chance to see him on something other than the deck of a sinking ship.

This film will sell a lot of tickets because of the young star, and while his fans won't be disappointed, this vehicle tells a story that has been told many times before, without bringing anything new to the table.

DiCaprio plays King Louis XIV, who rules with such indifference to the masses that the Three Musketeers, played by John Malkovich, Jeremy Irons and Gerard Depardieu plan to replace him in power with his twin brother (also played by DiCaprio), who has been kept locked up with an iron mask on (the fact that once it is finally taken off he has absolutely no skin condition is one of the films sillier moments).

The plot has been filmed before, and while the storyline becomes predictable at times sitting back and watching the all-star cast bring the characters to life is worth the price of admission (as long as you're paying the discount matinee price). Gabriel Byrne's performance as the Fourth Musketeer, whose sense of duty to the King prevents him from siding with the others, even though he knows the King deserves what he will get, is the best part about the film.

Rated: PG-13 (some violent scenes, nudity)

Length: 132 minutes

SHORTTAKES

MOVIE: "TWILIGHT"
GRADE: 1/2

Review: The rumors of Paul Newman's retirement from making feature films is certainly premature, as this well-crafted drama proves.

Newman continues to be a master at his craft, and is one of the few actors today who can convey an entire scene's worth of feeling and emotion in just a glance. Himself getting on in age, he is able to capture the part of a man who grows more weary of his life the more he finds out about his so-called friends perfectly, and expands on it. Gene Hackman and Susan Sarandon are also very good, along with James Garner in a supporting role.

Rated: R (language, nudity, mature theme)

Length: 97 minutes.

MOVIE: "KISSING A FOOL"
GRADE: ***

Review: This is a sweet, romantic comedy that shows a new side of a well-known star.

David Schwimmer, one of the stars of the television show "Friends", plays Max, a womanizing, Chicago sportscaster who gets set up on a date by his life-long best friend Jay, played by Jason Lee. Just 24 hours later Max and his date, Samantha (played by Mili Avital) fall in love, and Max decides to forego all other relationships and the two become engaged.

He asks his friend to engage in a test of his new love's faithfulness, which sets up a number of romantic misadventures for all involved. Schwimmer finally makes the successful leap from television to the big screen with this role, which shows that he can play something other than the "Mr. Nice Guy" role he fills on "Friends".

Rated: R (no nudity, some language, mature theme)

Length: 95 minutes.

MOVIE: "THE WEDDING SINGER"
GRADE: ***

Review: There is no one in Hollywood right now that is better at playing the lovable schmuck than comedian Adam Sandler, and this vehicle provides the perfect vehicle for him to do it in.

Sandler plays Robbie Hart, a failed rock and roll singer who plays weddings to pay the bills. He gets stood up at his own wedding by his girlfriend, and then falls for a waitress played by Drew Barrymore. Barrymore's character is also engaged, and once Sandler finds out that her fiancé is cheating on her, he decides to break up her wedding.

Rated: PG-13 (many of the jokes, scenes, and language are sex-related)

Length: 97 minutes

MOVIE: "THE FULL MONTY"
GRADE: ****

This low-budget gem was the surprise hit of 1997. The plot, which involves a group of overweight, beer-guzzling men who decide to become male strippers after they are laid off from their jobs has some comedically classic scenes, and a pretty good soundtrack as well.

"Our hotline describes how, what, when and where to recycle in your community. Just dial 1-800-800-6881, punch in your ZIP Code, and E-Call will tell you everything you need to know to make recycling a great new habit in 1998."
